Surveyor 4 Mission Off To Good Start

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Rocketing on a near-perfect course through space, America's Surveyor 4 winged moonward today to hunt for iron on rugged lunar terrain with a magnet, shovel and revolving camera eye in a study of how the moon's craters are formed.

"Everything loops real good," project officials reported after tracking the mooncraft for several hours. "The spacecraft is great—just great."

Flight controllers said Surveyor 4 was headed toward a spot on the moon only 120 miles south-west of its target zone—"well within the capability of a mid-course motor" aboard the craft to adjust it on a perfect path later in the mission.

Surveyor 4 sensors successfully locked onto the sun. The sun and star Canopus, to be acquired later in the flight, are to orient the craft during its 63-hour, 24,730-mile voyage to the moon.

The robot prospector blasted off at 7:53 a.m. (EDT) today aboard a fiery Atlas-Centaur rocket, aiming to soft land Sunday at 10:30 p.m. on rough Sinus Medii, the central bay region, almost squarely in the center of the moon's visible face as it is seen from earth.

The Atlas-Centaur's performance was "flawless," said Robert H. Gray, director of unmanned launch operations for the National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Kennedy Space Center here.

The launch of Surveyor 4 — most complex automation yet built to scout a potential astronaut landing space — originally was scheduled Thursday. It was postponed until today so technicians could repair a minor rocket problem.

In addition to taking thousands of pictures at the site with its television camera, the 2,290-pound moon robot was equipped with an extendible claw-like shovel to test the soil's strength and deposit fragments from the lunar surface near a small magnet attached to one of Surveyor's three foot pads.

If fragments stick to the magnet, it would lend support to a theory that the moon's craters were formed by the impact of iron-bearing meteors rather than volcanic action.

The two-inch-long magnet, a bonus experiment being flown for the first time on any U.S. moonship, could attract ferrous objects the size of a paper clip, officials said. Some scientists estimate that as much as 10 percent of the lunar surface may consist of iron-bearing meteoric dust.

"The little magnet may eliminate some scientific concepts" about the makeup of the lunar surface, said Benjamin Milwitzky, surveyor program manager for NASA headquarters in Washington, D.C.

He cautioned, however, that the experiment's results will not be conclusive because magnetically attractive metals other than iron could also stick to the magnet.

Radiation Seasons Year-Old Meal

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The food was old, but the taste was fresh.

Some 100 housewives attended a luncheon Thursday and were fed potato salad that was a year old, bacon that had been in storage for eight months and seven-month-old rolls.

Some of the women were a bit squeamish in eating the meal, but admitted Mrs. William Eddy, "I can't detect any difference in the taste."

The food had been seasoned months before with radiation and was served to the women at the Second International Symposium on Nucleonics (nuclear electronics) in Aerospace here.

Its purpose was to demonstrate how radio isotopes are used to preserve food.

3 Negroes Killed In Newark Riots; Guards Summoned

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — Calling Newark a "city in open rebellion," Gov. Richard J. Hughes today ordered the deployment of "ample numbers" of police and National Guardsmen to stem the Negro rioting that left at least three persons dead.

The victims, all Negroes, died of gunshot wounds.

Hughes toured the city with Mayor Hugh Addonizio this morning following the night of rioting that exploded into gunfire.

At least 25 persons were shot and another 300 received other injuries. Among the injured were at least 25 police and firemen, several seriously.

The governor ordered all liquor stores and bars closed in this industrial city of 400,000 persons—more than half of whom are Negro—and declared: "We'll dry this city out."

Atty. Gen. Arthur Sills said he was preparing legal steps to impose a curfew tonight. Hughes also ordered all sporting goods stores and pawn shops closed to stop the dispersal of weapons.

He told a news conference that he personally saw looting continuing as he toured, and said "the destruction is unbelievable." Hughes said he was upset at the "holiday atmosphere" which he compared to "laughing at a funeral."

More than 425 persons had been arrested and jails were overflowing. The governor said federal jails would be used if authorities found any federal violations.

He said he had instructed the National Guardsmen and New Jersey State Police brought in at dawn to reinforce the city's 1,400-man police force and to return fire if they were fired upon. Police were ordered to seal off key arteries.

Hughes said he was shocked to see a Negro couple, driving an expensive car, stop in the middle of a street, jump out and begin to grab shoes from the broken window of a shoe store.

Throughout the night and into the day the looters brought shopping carts and sacks to haul out liquor, food and other merchandise from stores whose windows had been smashed.

The violence began Thursday night at the 4th Precinct police station which was first besieged Wednesday by a rock-throwing crowd riled by the arrest of a Negro taxi driver. They charged police brutality.

Hartford, Conn., police sealed off a square mile of the predominantly Negro North End of the city where roving groups of young people smashed store windows, looted the establishments and hurled fire bombs and bricks. At least 13 persons were arrested and four injured, including two police officers.

An incident in Erie that usually would not cause much anxiety—a brick thrown through the window of a furniture store—brought a number of police prowling to the scene, but it didn't amount to anything, police said. Erie, like Hartford and Newark, went through incidents of racial violence Wednesday night.

Newark's trouble was first reported under control about midnight but hopes that the incidents were isolated were dashed by 1 a.m. when police had been given a "fire if necessary" order.

They battled rooftop snipers and dodged bullets fired from cars roaming around the city. A firebomber was blamed for a huge blaze in the downtown business district.

Mayor Hugh Addonizio called for 300 state policemen and an unannounced number of National Guardsmen. Newark police had been able to handle Wednesday night's trouble unassisted.

Meanwhile the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, meeting in Boston to discuss, among other things, ways to head off just such racial violence, was having troubles of its own.

Young, reform-minded members whom the older members call "Young Turks" were looking for ways to gain control of the NAACP's board of directors.

Queen Gives Marriage OK

LONDON (AP)—With an unusual assist from Prime Minister Harold Wilson to share expected criticism, Queen Elizabeth II will give her permission for the marriage of her divorced first cousin to the mother of his illegitimate son.

Wilson's office announced Thursday night that the Cabinet had advised the queen to give her consent for the Earl of Harewood to marry Patricia Tuckwell "and Her Majesty has signified her intention to do so."

Formal approval will be given at a privy council meeting July 28. Harewood, 44, is 17th in line for the throne. His first wife, former concert pianist Marion Stein, divorced him earlier this year on the grounds of his adultery with Miss Tuckwell, 38, a former Australian model and violinist who had been his secretary.

The divorce, which gave Lady Harewood custody of their three children, became final last Friday and on Saturday Harewood submitted his request to Buckingham Palace to remarry.

The queen's consent for the marriage of anyone in line for the throne is required by the Royal Marriages Act of 1772. Harewood has no chance of ever reaching the throne, but his request was a potential source of embarrassment to the queen since she is titular head of the Church of England and it opposes the remarriage of divorced persons.

Israeli Ships Said Destroyed

Plan Announced To Tap Sinai Oil

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tank and artillery fire rattled across the Suez Canal cease-fire line again today, and the Egyptians claimed they destroyed an Israeli launch and a number of rubber boats the Israelis were trying to launch in the waterway.

The Israeli army reported that sporadic attacks by Egyptian artillery, mortars, tank and machine guns began at sunset Thursday and continued today at points ranging from the southern end of the canal to El Qantara, near the northern end.

The Israelis claimed they knocked out three Egyptian tanks while suffering several casualties to their troops.

An Egyptian communique, reporting only one 45-minute exchange of fire this morning, said the Israelis fired first near El Qantara with artillery and machine guns. The communique claimed return Egyptian fire destroyed an Israeli tank.

Israel said the firing between Egyptians and Israelis continued all morning with the main action centered later on the southern end of the canal. The Israelis claimed they shelled an Egyptian boat after one of theirs was hit by Egyptian artillery fire. The boats were not officially identified, but they are

Man Tells Of Ordeal On Lake Erie

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—A few hours of fishing from his 19-foot outboard motor boat on Lake Erie turned into a 2½-day ordeal for Kenneth Trummell, 41, of Painesville, who was returned home Thursday by the Coast Guard.

Trummell a self-employed carpenter who has a heart ailment, said "I had about given up hope. All I could do was pray to God that somebody would find me."

"I fished for several hours," Trummell said. "When I tried to start the motor to come back, I found the gas had siphoned off."

His wife Patricia, notified the Coast Guard when Trummell did not return later Monday evening.

"I had two sandwiches and some coffee with me," Trummell said.

He said that at one point he was about 1,000 yards from the Canadian coastline, but drifted back out into the lake. He was recovered by a Canadian fishing vessel about 12 miles south of Stanley Point, Ont.

Rhodes Accepts Out-of-State Speaking Offers

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Gov. James A. Rhodes is entering the national political picture — at least as an after-dinner speaker.

Rhodes and State Republican Chairman John S. Andrews announced Thursday that the governor has begun accepting invitations to speak at out-of-state Republican gatherings. He has turned down such invitations since becoming governor in 1963.

In making the announcement, Rhodes said, "I am still not a candidate for national office. I haven't been and I won't be."

Rhodes said he has agreed to address an Indiana state GOP meeting this fall, between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15.

Andrews said the main reason for Rhodes' change in policy is that he wants to repay other states for providing well-known GOP speakers at Ohio meetings.

20,000 Goodyear Employees Idled

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — More than 20,000 United Rubber Workers at 11 Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plants in 10 states joined today in the union's longest and largest walkout against the rubber industry's major producers.

Pickets appeared at plant gates at the Thursday midnight deadline—less than two hours after negotiations at Cincinnati had recessed with union representatives rejecting Goodyear's third offer in bargaining that has been going on nearly four months.

A Goodyear spokesman said the offer was "identical for tire plants" with one made in the General Tire & Rubber Co. negotiations in Cleveland and tentatively agreed to by United Rubber Workers representatives Thursday afternoon.

Goodyear had continued work on a day-to-day basis after the union struck Firestone, B. F. Goodrich and Uniroyal April 21, idling 51,000 employees. On June 22, General Tire & Rubber, ...

Rubber Strike Affecting Ohio Economy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tell-tale signs of economic change show in Ohio, with almost 20,000 rubber workers on strike with the spread of the United Rubber Workers' strike to Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. Thursday.

The strike, fast approaching the three-month mark, has left its effect on Ohio—particularly Akron.

Officials estimate the city has lost $14,000 a week in income tax revenue since the walkout began. The 1 per cent tax is one of Akron's big money raisers, having lined city coffers with some $10 million last year.

Labor observers report business at a low, with noticeable effects evident in department store sales, restaurants and amusement centers.

Bank officials in the Akron area say personal savings have increased in the face of wage stoppage within the rubber industry. They explain this is a "rainy day" phenomena, when citizens hold on to their money as a result of uncertainty of the economic future.

The strike, however, has given validity to Akron's reputation as "moonlighting capital of the world", for it highlights the average rubber employee in his role as a two-job man.

Since the majority of the big rubber industries operate on six-hour shifts, many of the workers enjoy a second income. Observers say this has lessened greatly the financial burden for them during the past three months.

Size of Buildup In Vietnam Still Uncertain

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has acted quickly and with dramatic flair to try to squash any notion his administration is divided on the need for more troops in Vietnam.

But Gen. William C. Westmoreland reportedly was irked by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara's statements that more effective use must be made of troops already in Vietnam.

As yet there is no word on how many more men will be dispatched to the Southwest Asian fighting but Westmoreland, commander of U.S. forces in Vietnam, said at a White House news conference Thursday: "I am being provided the forces, as I have recommended."

In a bid to emphasize administration solidarity, Johnson summoned reporters to his private living quarters on the second floor of the White House for the first news conference he has held there.

He had with him Westmoreland, McNamara and Army Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, to back up the presidential assertion that "we have reached a meeting of the minds."

Dutifully, Westmoreland, McNamara and Wheeler voiced their agreement with this statement as Johnson polled them in turn for the benefit of newsmen.

With all that, Johnson and the other participants in the unusual session made it clear many questions remain to be answered about future American troop commitments in Vietnam. "The troops that Gen. Westmoreland needs and requests, we feel it necessary, will be supplied," said Johnson.

The President also said the exact time for sending reinforcements, the exact number

Postage Increase Is Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — It would cost you six cents to mail a letter—or a dime if you send it air mail—under a postal rate increase approved by a House subcommittee.

That's a penny more than the present first class letter rate and two cents more than the air mail levy.

Post cards would be hit even harder, jumping from their present four cent and six cent rates for surface and air mail respectively to the same six cents and ten cents approved for sealed letters.

The proposal still has a long way to go through congressional channels before becoming law, however.

Plan for Keeping Fit, Trim Old as Hills, Group Claims

CHICAGO (AP) — Man may not be able to live on bread alone, but he can make out quite well, thanks, on fruits, vegetables, nuts and dairy products. At least that's how members of the American Natural Hygiene Society feel about it.

In fact, members consider some other foods quite literally "poison." These include some pretty popular items — meat, fish, liquor, beer, commercial products.

Their diet must be supplemented by an entire program of hygienic practices including regular exercise, sunbathing, rest and even fasting.

The group's 19th annual convention in Chicago, a nine-day meeting, has attracted health enthusiasts from across the country. Many feel they are alive today only because of their faithfulness to the program.

Director Jack Trop, 67, said that he and many other members came over to the natural hygiene way as a last resort. "A number of these people — as well as I — were told by doctors that we had only a short period of time to live," he said. The audience looked very lively indeed. There were no fannies in the crowd and several of the elderly people were remarkably alert and energetic.

Trop continued, "We offer no magic potions. We believe the only way to get well is to behave yourself. There is no secret. Our plan is as old as the hills. A little wisdom and the wonderful powers of the human body are enough to take care of you."

Although Trop said the group is not opposed to medical men or medical practices, hygienists would rather try conservative measures before submitting to drugs or surgery.

He hastened to add that the program could not, of course help individuals suffering from terminal diseases.

He did, however, say that "the group considers disease not an enemy, but a friend, a warning. The body is saying, 'lie down, relax — to give me a chance to straighten you out'."

20,000 Goodyear Employees Idled

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — More than 20,000 United Rubber Workers at 11 Goodyear Tire and Rubber Co. plants in 10 states joined today in the union's longest and largest walkout against the rubber industry's major producers.

Pickets appeared at plant gates at the Thursday midnight deadline—less than two hours after negotiations at Cincinnati had recessed with union representatives rejecting Goodyear's third offer in bargaining that has been going on nearly four months.

A Goodyear spokesman said the offer was "identical for tire plants" with one made in the General Tire & Rubber Co. negotiations in Cleveland and tentatively agreed to by United Rubber Workers representatives Thursday afternoon.

Goodyear had continued work on a day-to-day basis after the union struck Firestone, B. F. Goodrich and Uniroyal April 21, idling 51,000 employees. On June 22, General Tire & Rubber, smallest member of the industry's Big Five, was struck, adding 3,050 more workers to the walkout.

Goodyear negotiations were scheduled to resume today.

The Executive Committee of URW Local 9 expected to arrange a ratification vote tonight for General Tire & Rubber's 1,850 workers here and 1,200 at Waco, Tex. A company spokesman said an approval could mean resumption of production early next week.

Unlike other members of the Big Five, General Tire's URW strikers are all tire builders, the industry's highest paid classification. A union source said their average hourly pay is $3.88.

Under terms of the three-year contract proposed for General Tire workers would receive a package of wage and fringe benefits the company said added up to 81 cents. The Union put a 75-cent price tag on the package.

Hourly wage increases under the tentative agreement would be 15 cents this year, 15 cents next year and 13 cents in 1969, plus an additional 10 cents in the first year for skilled workers.

An unprecedented six-week vacation would go to 30-year veterans and the requirement for five weeks vacation would be reduced from 25 to 22 years. A tenth paid holiday would be added.

Supplemental unemployment benefits, now 65 per cent of weekly salary for laid-off workers, would go up to 80 per cent. Goodyear employs 8,300 at its plants here and has another Ohio plant at St. Marys.

The strike, fast approaching the three-month mark, has left its effect on Ohio—particularly Akron.

Officials estimate the city has lost $14,000 a week in income tax revenue since the walkout began. The 1 per cent tax is one of Akron's big money raisers, having lined city coffers with some $10 million last year.

Postage Increase Is Suggestion

WASHINGTON (AP) — It would cost you six cents to mail a letter—or a dime if you send it air mail—under a postal rate increase approved by a House subcommittee.

That's a penny more than the present first class letter rate and two cents more than the air mail levy.

Post cards would be hit even harder, jumping from their present four cent and six cent rates for surface and air mail respectively to the same six cents and ten cents approved for sealed letters.

The proposal still has a long way to go through congressional channels before becoming law, however.

Plan for Keeping Fit, Trim Old as Hills, Group Claims

CHICAGO (AP) — Man may not be able to live on bread alone, but he can make out quite well, thanks, on fruits, vegetables, nuts and dairy products. At least that's how members of the American Natural Hygiene Society feel about it.

In fact, members consider some other foods quite literally "poison." These include some pretty popular items — meat, fish, liquor, beer, commercial products.

Their diet must be supplemented by an entire program of hygienic practices including regular exercise, sunbathing, rest and even fasting.

The group's 19th annual convention in Chicago, a nine-day meeting, has attracted health enthusiasts from across the country. Many feel they are alive today only because of their faithfulness to the program.

Director Jack Trop, 67, said that he and many other members came over to the natural hygiene way as a last resort. "A number of these people — as well as I — were told by doctors that we had only a short period of time to live," he said.

The audience looked very lively indeed. There were no fannies in the crowd and several of the elderly people were remarkably alert and energetic.

Trop continued, "We offer no magic potions. We believe the only way to get well is to be healthy yourself. There is no secret. Our plan is as old as the hills. A little wisdom and the wonderful powers of the human body are enough to take care of you."

Although Trop said the group is not opposed to medical men or medical practices, hygienists would rather try conservative measures before submitting to drugs or surgery.

He hastened to add that the program could not, of course help individuals suffering from terminal diseases.

He did, however, say that "the group considers disease not an enemy, but a friend, a warning. The body is saying, 'lie down, relax — to give me a chance to straighten you out'."

OEA Study of Teays Valley District Is Completed

Results of a study of the Teays Valley School District by the Ohio Education Assn. has been completed and recommendations have been made by the study group.

The study was requested by the Teays Valley Classroom Teachers Assn.

The local organization requested the study because:

"1. The community has refused to provide the necessary funds for an adequate educational program.

"2. The present school board, by inactivity, has impounded the educational problems of the district."

Members of the OEA study panel included Dr. Kermit Daugherty, secretary of the professional rights and responsibilities commission; Dr. Robert E. Miner, director of the division of research; William E. Henry, director of the division of publications-information services.

The three-member staff panel met with the Board of Education, Pickaway County Superintendent George D. McDowell, Teays Valley Executive Head Benis Lutz, representatives of the TVCTA, other school personnel and interested citizens of the community on June 26-27.

No attempt was made by the panel to evaluate the educational program of the Teays Valley School District. The report made by the OEA deals with the allegation that citizens of the Teays Valley School District failed to provide additional revenues for the operation of the district.

The OEA's recommendations were made not only for the board, the administration of the school and for the citizens of the district, but for the TV Classroom Teachers Assn. as well.

When asking for the survey, the classroom teachers indicated that "sanctions" against the district might result from it. No mention was made in the report of the OEA asking teachers to avoid seeking employment in the district.

The report indicated the key problem of the Teays Valley District was failure of recent additional operating levies which would have provided funds to increase teacher salaries and to operate the schools.

Basically, five pages of recommendations proposed by the study group outlined a policy designed to educate the voters to the need of money to operate the school and to promote the passage of any future levies.

Wild Missile Destroys Village

U.S. Intensifies Viet Air Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. pilots flew 170 missions against North Vietnam Thursday, their fourth highest total of the war, attacking missile sites around Hanoi and Haiphong, oil storage depots in the Haiphong area and Communist army barracks.

Navy fliers reported one SAM missile fired at them went wild and hit a village 12 miles southwest of Haiphong. They said the village went up in flames.

Viet Cong guerrillas overran a coastal hamlet 342 miles northeast of Saigon today, inflicting heavy casualties on the 25 militiamen defending the village, wounding six Vietnamese civilians and kidnapping 11, a Vietnamese spokesman reported. Six of the raiders were killed in the attack on Guan Co, on the South China Sea.

Little other ground action was reported. Twenty-four Americans were wounded in two mortar attacks Thursday night 25 miles northwest and 35 miles southeast of Saigon. South Vietnamese military headquarters said the Viet Cong peppered four scattered Vietnamese infantry positions with light mortar shelling early today, causing light casualties to the troops and wounding 10 civilians in one attack.

A U.S. spokesman reported no planes lost during the raids on North Vietnam Thursday and said no Communist MIG interceptors were sighted.

In South Vietnam, however, a U.S. Air Force propeller-driven Skyraider was shot down near Khe Sanh in the northwest corner of the country near Laos.

Arthur Dick Jr., 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dick Sr., Mt. Sterling, received a concussion when hit in the back of the head with a swing.

Killed in Car Crash

HAMILTON, OHIO (AP) — Thomas Callihan, 16, of near Oxford was killed Thursday when a car in which he was riding hit the side of a bridge near Hamilton and plunged into a creek.

It was the 193rd U.S. combat plane reported lost in South Vietnam.

The pilot whose plane was hit while he was making a bombing run, bailed out. He was picked up by a South Vietnamese helicopter which flew through enemy ground fire and took five hits before completing the rescue. Neither the Vietnamese helicopter crew nor the American flier was injured.

The 170 missions against the North included probably about 500 individual strike sorties and were only five short of the record for the war of 175 missions last Oct. 14. However, the 7th Air Force set its own record Thursday by flying 97 of the 70, with Navy and Marine corps pilots accounting for the other 73.

Destroyers of the U.S. 7th Fleet continued shelling coastal defenses in North Vietnam Thursday. The Morton pounded artillery positions in the northern half of the demilitarized zone and troop concentrations in the southern half. Aerial spotters reported "excellent coverage." The Ware was fired on by coastal batteries, but a U.S. spokesman said the ship was not hit.

believed to be either motorboats or landing craft.

The fighting began with Egyptian flat-trajectory fire aimed at Israeli forces, Israel said. Later the Egyptians brought tanks and artillery into play and later mortars joined in.

Cairo said this was the first attempt by the Israelis to cross from the east side of the canal, which has been in Israeli hands since the cease-fire ended the Egyptian-Israeli fighting early in June. Israel said nothing about whether the boat that was hit was trying to cross.

The Cairo communique said the Israelis tried to cross in the El Qantara area 27 miles south of Port Said at the canal's northern entrance.

As the shooting continued, Lt. Gen. Odd Bull, the U.N. Palestine truce observer, headed from Cairo to Tel Aviv to discuss stationing of U.N. observers along the cease-fire line.

Bull met Wednesday with Israeli army officials in Tel Aviv and Thursday with the Egyptians in Cairo, but there was no indication yet when the observers would take their stations.

The canal, which was blocked during the June war, has been the scene of intermittent fighting for several days.

Meanwhile, Israel turned another screw on Egypt's struggling economy, announcing it will tap the Egyptian oil wells in the Sinai desert which yield nearly 5 million tons a year.

Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said Thursday the Egyptian oil will be used to meet Israel's domestic requirement of 3 million tons annually. He did not say whether the Israelis plan to export the balance.

The Haifa refineries are reported to have completed tests for refining the Sinai oil. The wells were operated by the Egyptian government and ENI, the Italian oil monopoly, until Israeli troops seized the field at Belagm in the June war.

Habeas Corpus Writ Filed by John Pernell

A writ of habeas corpus has been filed in Common Pleas Court against Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, seeking the release from jail of John Henry Pernell of Tennessee.

Pernell, age 55, is accused by Tennessee authorities with the May 19 slaying of Irene Nellie Pernell. He was indicted for first degree murder May 26, in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Pernell was apprehended in Circleville by City Police and the Sheriff's Department on a fugitive warrant June 6.

A hearing was held in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court and Judge William Ammer ordered the defendant held without bail pending extradition. Pernell refused to be extradited.

Pernell had earlier been apprehended in Dayton on a federal warrant. He was released by a Federal Court in Dayton after a hearing.

He was apprehended in Circleville while visiting his mother. Judge Ammer declined a request by Pernell's attorney to transfer the case to Dayton Courts.

Pernell lists his occupation as a "newspaperman," according to records kept at the Pickaway County Jail.

Representing Pernell in his bid for freedom is John W. Wurts, Dayton attorney.

OEA Study of Teays Valley District Is Completed

Results of a study of the Teays Valley School District by the Ohio Education Assn. has been completed and recommendations have been made by the study group.

The study was requested by the Teays Valley Classroom Teachers Assn.

The local organization requested the study because:

"1. The community has refused to provide the necessary funds for an adequate educational program.

"2. The present school board, by inactivity, has impounded the educational problems of the district."

Members of the OEA study panel included Dr. Kermit Daugherty, secretary of the professional rights and responsibilities commission; Dr. Robert E. Miner, director of the division of research; William E. Henry, director of the division of publications-information services.

The three-member staff panel met with the Board of Education, Pickaway County Superintendent George D. McDowell, Teays Valley Executive Head Benis Lutz, representatives of the TVCTA, other school personnel and interested citizens of the community on June 26-27.

No attempt was made by the panel to evaluate the educational program of the Teays Valley School District. The report made by the OEA deals with the allegation that citizens of the Teays Valley School District failed to provide additional revenues for the operation of the district.

The OEA's recommendations were made not only for the board, the administration of the school and for the citizens of the district, but for the TV Classroom Teachers Assn. as well.

When asking for the survey, the classroom teachers indicated that "sanctions" against the district might result from it. No mention was made in the report of the OEA asking teachers to avoid seeking employment in the district.

The report indicated the key problem of the Teays Valley District was failure of recent additional operating levies which would have provided funds to increase teacher salaries and to operate the schools.

Basically, five pages of recommendations proposed by the study group outlined a policy designed to educate the voters to the need of money to operate the school and to promote the passage of any future levies.

Killed in Car Crash

HAMILTON, OHIO (AP) — Thomas Callihan, 16, of near Oxford was killed Thursday when a car in which he was riding hit the side of a bridge near Hamilton and plunged into a creek.

In another of the news conference's defense overtones, Westmoreland was prompted by Johnson to say something about what the President called "this 'stalemate' creature."

The general responded: "The statement that we are in a stalemate is a complete fiction. It is completely unrealistic. During the past year tremendous progress has been made. The enemy has not won a single significant victory during the past year, despite the tremendous effort that he has put forth."

There was general reluctance on Capitol Hill to comment until the specific number of added U.S. troops is disclosed.

It was the 193rd U.S. combat plane reported lost in South Vietnam.

The pilot whose plane was hit while he was making a bombing run, bailed out. He was picked up by a South Vietnamese helicopter which flew through enemy ground fire and took five hits before completing the rescue. Neither the Vietnamese helicopter crew nor the American flier was injured.

The canal, which was blocked during the June war, has been the scene of intermittent fighting for several days.

Meanwhile, Israel turned another screw on Egypt's stranglehold economy, announcing it will tap the Egyptian oil wells in the Sinai desert which yield nearly 5 million tons a year.

Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir said Thursday the Egyptian oil will be used to meet Israel's domestic requirement of 3 million tons annually. He did not say whether the Israelis plan to export the balance.

The Haifa refineries are reported to have completed tests for refining the Sinai oil. The wells were operated by the Egyptian government and ENI, the Italian oil monopoly, until Israeli troops seized the field at Belagim in the June war.

Habeas Corpus Writ Filed by John Pernell

A writ of habeas corpus has been filed in Common Pleas Court against Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, seeking the release from jail of John Henry Pernell of Tennessee.

Pernell, age 55, is accused by Tennessee authorities with the May 19 slaying of Irene Nellie Pernell. He was indicted for first degree murder May 26, in Chattanooga, Tenn.

Pernell was apprehended in Circleville by City Police and the Sheriff's Department on a fugitive warrant June 6.

A hearing was held in Pickaway County Common Pleas Court and Judge William Ammer ordered the defendant held without bail pending extradition. Pernell refused to be extradited.

Pernell had earlier been apprehended in Dayton on a federal warrant. He was released by a Federal Court in Dayton after a hearing.

He was apprehended in Circleville while visiting his mother. Judge Ammer declined a request by Pernell's attorney to transfer the case to Dayton Courts.

Pernell lists his occupation as a "newspaperman," according to records kept at the Pickaway County Jail.

Representing Pernell in his bid for freedom is John W. Wurts, Dayton attorney.

Hippies Find Psychedelic Delight in TV Experiment

NEW YORK (AP) — Down in the East Village two young men have latched onto television as a psychedelic medium and turned it into a groove tube for hippies.

Out of its screens pour a cornucopia of switched-on humor, put-down and music. "We like to think we're providing heads (hippies) with their own CBS," said Lane Sarason, one of the originators.

This experiment in hippie television, however, is neither network nor station, but a theater with three 23-inch sets where an audience pays $1.75 to watch a two-hour production put together by Sarason, 24, and Ken Shapiro, 25.

The project, called Channel One, Underground Television, premiered Monday night at the East 4th Street Theater and is shown once a night.

The audience the first night was estimated at 120 and the second night at 50.

Asked if they entered the business to make money, Shapiro said, "No, not really. It was just something we wanted to do." Sarason said, "It seemed like a good occupation."

"We didn't like what we were seeing on commercial television," Shapiro said, "and it's a medium you can do things which you can't do in the movies or on the stage."

Improvising, working with a small camera and a tape unit, and calling on the help of actor friends and musicians, they put the show together in four months. Shapiro said he hopes the show can run for a number of months before they have to work up another production.

For the most part the show satirizes television itself, sometimes superficially, sometimes devastatingly. Shapiro, a one-time child actor on the Milton Berle show, brings his many years experience to the project.

Majority Favors Negro Jurist

WASHINGTON (AP) — A majority of the Senate Judiciary Committee is on record favoring Thurgood Marshall's nomination to the Supreme Court even though questioning of the Negro attorney still was incomplete.

As the committee's hearing went into a second day today, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said he intended to question Marshall about civil rights—a field in which he said Marshall is supposed to be an expert.

Thurmond is the only GOP member of the committee opposed to Marshall's confirmation by the Senate.

Marshall, now solicitor general and a former judge of the U.S. Court of Appeals in New York, was for many years counsel for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People.

Questioning Thursday centered on Marshall's views with respect to the rights of criminal suspects.

Nab Jail Escapee

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—Police, firing several warning shots in a chase through downtown Toledo, recaptured Mangle Sanders, 20, minutes after he escaped from the city jail Thursday.

Sanders, of Toledo, charged in connection with last week's burglary of television sets and other items from the J.C. Penney Co. warehouse, fled from authorities as he was being questioned outside his cell.

CHURCH SERVICES — Howard Carter (above), Ilkxon, Tenn., will be the speaker for a series of meetings 7:20 p. m. daily from July 23-28, at the Church of Christ, N. Court St. The public is invited to attend the meetings.

Progress Reported at Newport News

NEWPORT NEWS, Va. (AP) — Substantial progress was reported in attempts to settle a strike now in its fifth day at the Newport News shipyard and helmeted state troopers and local police maintained peace at the yard today.

Pickets heeded union requests to stay home during further union-management negotiations. Federal mediators said they have stepped into the dispute although they were not invited by either side. Before the strike the shipyard, which employs 21,500, was at work on 10 major projects, including five nuclear submarines and outfitting the newly christened carrier USS John F. Kennedy.

Officials of the 15,000-member Peninsula Shipbuilders Association withdrew the pickets at the request of Gov. Mills E. Godwin Jr. after a bloody two-hour riot erupted in front of the shipyard Wednesday.

The first strike in the shipyard's 81-year history was called Sunday by the independent union after three workers were suspended for two days for refusing to work overtime.

Lowe Drops Out Of Mayoral Race

CLEVELAND (AP)—Allen J. Lowe, who became a GOP mayoral candidate reluctantly, has dropped from the race to leave Seth Taft Jr. unopposed in his bid to run against the winner of the Democratic primary for Cleveland's mayoral nomination Oct. 3.

"I was not trying to be coy," said Lowe Thursday night of his on-again-off - again attitude toward the mayoral candidacy. "I feel that both parties should present bona fide candidates in all elections."

Lowe, general manager of the Sheraton - Cleveland Hotel, said that now he is assured of having a bona fide GOP candidate in the race he can withdraw.

Claim Program Among Best in Nation

Local Mental Health Centers Proposed in Bill before Senate

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Leaders will call up for passage in the Ohio Senate Monday night a bill designed eventually to put Ohio's mental hospitals out of business and replace them with community treatment centers. The Department of Mental Hygiene and Correction drafted the bill which embodies a new concept of keeping the mentally ill closer to home and under more intensive care.

Mental health groups throughout the state support the measure, already approved by the House, and they contend it will give Ohio one of the finest and most comprehensive programs in the nation.

Tax talk subsidized slightly Thursday as the House and Senate held routine floor sessions wrapping up their 27th work week. But reports of a rumored program to give state aid to parochial schools gained momentum. Administration spokesmen conceded such a program has been discussed but insisted that a specific plan has not been decided on.

Already there are signs of a bitter fight over the proposal. The Ohio Civil Liberties Union fired off a letter to Gov. James A. Rhodes, asking him to "reject any and all plans for the furtherance of church-operated schools at public expense."

Benson A. Wolman, the group's legislative chairman, said such a plan would be "a blatant and unconscionable violation of the guarantees of church and state in both the constitutions of the United States and Ohio which you have sworn to uphold." Finance Director Richard Krabach said a plan may be forthcoming in the next few weeks providing text books, library books, and scientific and visual aids to students of church-affiliated schools.

In other legislative developments the House concurred in Senate amendments and sent to the governor a bill designed to curb rioting at Ohio summer resorts.

Under the bill, the governor has the authority to suspend liquor permits in rioting areas for 24 to 72 hours and longer if necessary.

Rep. Norman A. Murdock R-70 Cincinnati won 66-18 passage of a bill outlawing purchase or possession of master car keys for criminal purposes after displaying an advertisement offering master keys to unlock American-made cars and trucks for $8.

The House passed and sent to the Senate a bill requiring applicants for driver and chauffeur licenses to list their social security number and completed passage of a Senate measure eliminating a requirement for applicants for drivers licenses to state light or dark "color of complexion."

The House approved and sent to the Senate a measure authorizing counties to finance construction of privately operated, nonprofit hospitals with revenue bonds, as well as with general obligation bonds.

Rape Charges Dropped

JEFFERSON, Ohio (AP) — The Ashtabula County Grand Jury cited lack of evidence and refused to indict two motorcyclists accused of raping a young Ashtabula County woman at Geneva-on-the-Lake over the Memorial Day weekend.

Charges against Carl Delvaux, 25, of Warren and Carl Buchholtz, 22, of Pittsburgh were dropped Thursday.

BUC Coverage Up

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohioans covered by unemployment compensation totaled 2,731,690 workers in 1966, a record high, Willard P. Dudley, bureau administrator, said Thursday.

Military Man Seen Favored To Succeed Ky

SAIGON (AP) — Despite the collapse of their early favorite for the presidency, amid a power struggle in the military junta, U.S. officials believe a military man has the best chance of succeeding in South Vietnam's top job.

Whatever the personal preferences of the policy makers, few observers can dispute their basic assumption that the military is the largest political force in the anti-Communist struggle here and that no government can expect to rule effectively without military support.

Also, some U.S. sources have expressed belief that many of the civilian politicians have shown themselves far out of touch with the realities of the war in the countryside and what must be done to gain the peasants' allegiance.

There is always the danger that any civilian president would be toppled in a coup. Such action would destroy the government's legitimacy, which U.S. policy considers an absolute must if the peasants are expected to rally to the government side and if the new regime is to earn respect abroad.

Since the dramatic and unexpected ouster of Premier Nguyen Cao Ky from the presidential race last month, the U.S. mission here is believed to be operating a good deal more cautiously. Ky was front runner in the race until Chief of State Nguyen Van Thieu won support from key members of the military junta in a masterful power play. Thieu is a lieutenant general in the army, while Ky is an air vice marshal.

The U.S. mission, while taking a hands-off stance publicly, had been working actively behind the scenes for Ky on the grounds that he was most likely to win. Thieu's presidential candidacy was considered a threat to military unity, and the U.S. mission put pressure on the chief of state to withdraw. The mission's support of Ky may lead to difficulties in U.S.-Vietnamese relations if Thieu wins, as many expect he will.

Ford Foundation Grants Released To Race Groups

CLEVELAND (AP) — New Ford Foundation grants of $502,500 aimed at improving race relations in Cleveland will be divided among four organizations. Receiving the grants are the Businessmen's Interracial Committee, the Congress on Racial Equality, the National Catholic Conference for Interracial Justice and the American Council for National Services.

CORE is to receive $175,000 for the training of community workers, voter registration efforts, "exploration of economic development programs" and improvement of "program planning among civil rights groups."

The businessmen are to get $127,500 for job training, research on current programs and help to small neighborhood groups and job training programs.

The third organization, composed of white ethnic groups, will receive $200,000 for educational programs among white persons.

In announcing the grants in New York Thursday, foundation President McGeorge Bundy said the three groups were chosen for the $502,500 grants because "each of them has a well-designed program that seeks to engage Cleveland citizens under Cleveland initiative on Cleveland problems."

The Beat Society

In recent years few people have aroused more curiosity than the "beatniks," the so-called beat generation. These are the individuals who have found the battle of life too much for them. They have given up the struggle. For them yesterday is just another day that has passed, tomorrow has no significance and today must be got through with the minimum amount of effort required to provide food for it.

It would be amusing if this were a pose, a fad or a fancy that would pass in time. But it seems the beatnik is a genuine moral casualty of the scientific age. He cannot cope with it all. Unlike other people, nearly all of whom are apparently rushing somewhere but never arriving, the beatnik is not going anywhere — he is out of the game. Life, nature, the world — call it what you will — is too powerful for him.

Old Superstition

It was in the tenth century, nearly 1,000 years ago, that the legend about rain on St. Swithin's Day began. St. Swithin was the bishop of Winchester, England, from 852 to 862 and served as tutor of King Egbert's son, Ethelwulf. When he died he asked to be buried "where passersby might tread on my grave and where rain from above will fall on it."

A century later his body was exhumed for burial in a cathedral. It rained the day of the ceremony and for many days thereafter, according to the legend. From the rain came the story that if it rains on St. Swithin's Day, July 15, it will rain for 40 days. Nothing is said about having fair weather for 40 days if it doesn't rain.

America on Wheels

Vacation travel is at its peak. More and more Americans are touring the highways, and this month is headed for an all-time record of more than 100 million gas-powered vacationists. Tourists are also being transported by bus, flown abroad and at home in jet planes, and thousands are still sailing in ships. But for most the automobile is the favorite means of vacation travel. Moreover, they're traveling farther than ever. The American worker is entitled to rest and change, and figures indicate that he gets both, even if it's as exhausting as it sounds.

Speaking of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

My husband died of a heart attack at the age of 42. The attack was sudden and without prior warning or symptoms of any kind. He smoked a great deal and was perhaps ten pounds overweight but he was able to work energetically in business. Was there any way we might have taken precautions against such a calamity? Perhaps other readers of your column could benefit from my sad experience.

Mrs. Y. O., Kansas

Dear Mrs. O.: You are most kind in your own sadness to want to spare others the unhappiness that came to you. You almost pinpoint in your letter some of the factors that are responsible for heart attacks in young people. Many are sacrificed unnecessarily by not inspecting their health and taking for granted that the heart machinery can withstand the insults of tobacco, overweight and tension.

A sudden heart attack seems to be sudden, but really is not. Disease of the coronary arteries that bring blood to the heart muscle itself may go on for years, secretly and slowly without any symptoms. Suddenly the coronary artery is shut off. After years of becoming narrower and narrower, the attacks occur.

There are many factors that go into the complex puzzle of heart attacks. Many empty spaces still exist in the jigsaw puzzle. There are enough, however, for us to know that many severe heart attacks can be avoided.

The major reasons for heart attacks are: (1) high blood pressure (2) lack of exercise (3) marked overweight (4) cigarette smoking (5) cholesterol-filled fatty foods (6) uncontrolled, neglected diabetes and (7) tense emotional behavior at business and in the home. When these conditions occur singly they are less of a threat than when they occur in combination.

How can the potential candidate for a heart attack be flushed out of hiding so that productive lives can be spared the tragedy of sudden death or chronic invalidism? Prevention is the key to the preservation of useful hearts.

Diets should concentrate on replacing saturated fats with unsaturated fats. Saturated fats are found in meat, butter, cheese, cream, whole milk and solid cooking fats. Polyunsaturated fats are in liquid oils—corn, soybean and safflower. Fish and poultry fats tend to reduce the cholesterol in the blood. It is this build-up which is thought to be one of the

Politicians, Home Ownership

By John Chamberlain

The ineffable former Governor "Pat" Brown of California, who doesn't yet know what hit him last November, made the most maddeningly confusing speech of his life the other day at a Washington, D. C., conference on metropolitan problems sponsored by the National Institute of Public Affairs. Part of the speech harped on the alleged way conservatives have of covering up complexity "by working overtime to seem uncomplicated and obvious." The rest of the talk was a denunciation of people like Ronald Reagan for putting all their trust in "voluntarism."

These were expected gambits, and Pat Brown was simply being a politician in trying to get his enemies down. But what was really maddening about the Brown talk was its own unconscious simplistic quality. It is all very well to denounce a naive trust in total "voluntarism" and praise the State for doing things for individuals which they can't do for themselves, but it is either sheer stupidity or sheer demagoguery to assume that any State action is good action, and that there are no gradations in social thinking which allow for a type of State responsibility that consists of encouraging individual responsibility.

To listen to Pat Brown, you would never know some of the more brutal facts about so-called urban renewal. Brown assumes that poor people can't provide their own housing, which is true up to a point under State-induced inflation. But federal urban "renewers" have been singularly inept at providing the housing which Brown says is a responsibility of government. Liberals who are more sophisticated than Pat Brown have admitted as much. According to Richard Cloward of the Columbia University School of Social Work, the federal bulldozer has destroyed 250,000 more low-income housing units than have been built under the urban renewal program. As the gag goes, urban renewal is Negro removal.

It so happened that on the very day that Pat Brown was making his speech denouncing Ronald Reagan's "simplistic" addition to the cause of "voluntarism," Governor Reagan was sending a letter to Senator Charles Percy of Illinois endorsing the latter's extremely sophisticated home ownership foundation bill. Percy's approach to solving the low-income housing question is not pure voluntarism, any more than contemporary banks that avail themselves of federal deposit insurance are purely voluntaristic.

But the Percy approach is designed to encourage individual ownership of homes, which is good enough for the Reagan whom Pat Brown falsely dismisses as "the best salesman of the do-nothing school of government the conservatives have."

Public hearings on the Percy bill have been scheduled for July 26. The nub of the Percy proposition is the plan for setting up a National Home Ownership Foundation, which would be empowered by law to raise some two billion dollars by bond sales to private individuals. The bonds would be guaranteed by the federal government. The money would then be loaned to local associations to renovate slum property or even to build new homes for sale at cost to individual families on a three per cent interest basis.

Senator Percy, taking his cue from the experience of slum renovators in Indianapolis, Indiana, would allow any home buyer under the terms of his bill to make a down payment by joining in the work of reconstruction. This, in Indianapolis, is known as "sweat equity." Since Indianapolis is like other U. S. cities, what works there should work nationally.

The reason politicians like Pat Brown are bound to pass from the scene is that they are stuck with the anachronistic thinking of the Nineteen Thirties. It was assumed in that benighted decade that public housing was the only answer to saving the cities. But if it hadn't been for a vast increase in private home construction over the past three decades we would really be living three to a room.

The Percy plan, which has been endorsed by Pat Brown's successor, Reagan, would increase the scope of the private builder at the expense of an almost minuscule discomfort to the taxpayer, whose liability would consist of subsidizing low interest rates on low-income home mortgages where he is now paying much larger bills to subsidize public housing.

The Business World

By John Cuniff

NEW YORK (AP) — Most Americans have a common interest in compound interest, the reason being that it is the route to wealth for the steady saver and the foundation for some modest family fortunes.

This very ordinary-sounding concept, which has always intrigued the dreamer and profited the practical man, means that the interest you earn today begets more interest tomorrow.

Here is a hypothetical example, an extreme one, but one that establishes the point:

If you wish to do something for your descendants, you might find a way to invest $1,000 at an annual interest rate of 4 per cent, with this interest calculated and applied to the account every three months.

Just let it sit there, and tell your children and grandchildren and theirs, too, to leave it there. Taxes may ravage it over the years, but few simple investments protect the saver from taxes. After 200 years your descendants will honor your foresight with a big fight over a big fortune.

It is difficult to determine what the sum would be. But if, for the purpose of illustration only, you could ignore taxes the total would be $2.5 million and growing at the rate of $100,000 a year.

This is because compound interest earns interest on interest. It grows like a flashlight beam, wider and wider. Simple interest on the principle alone is more like a laser beam. It never gets wider.

That same $1,000 at 4 per cent a year on the original total would earn only $40 a year. After 200 years the total interest would be $8,000 and the total sum only $9,000.

Compounding, then, helps explain a lot of those very impressive charts that show how savings accounts soar over a period of years. It explains the "magic" of the stock market adviser who seems to coin money.

It explains also the basis of much established wealth and illustrates how some old families can live off the interest alone. It explains as well how a seeming pauper can leave an estate of $100,000.

It means that a gift to a youngster at birth will double in size by the time the child reaches college, for time rather than wheeling and dealing is the main ingredient of compounding.

Let us take a simple case.

Assume that you saved $100 every three months, a total of $400 a year.

At the end of the first year, assuming deposits were made at the close of each quarter, you would have $406, a profit of only $6.

After five years, however, your account will reach $2,201.90. You will have earned $209.90 in interest. If you maintain your quarterly schedule for 10 years, you will have $4,888.63, with $88.63, of that in interest.

But as time does its job, the interest accumulates with great speed. After 20 years you will have $12,167.15, of which $4,167.15 will be a profit through interest.

These figures are based on a 4 per cent annual rate. It is easily understood then how fortunes have been built with the higher rates on the stock market.

But higher rates generally mean higher risks also.

This is because compound interest earns interest on interest. It grows like a flashlight beam, wider and wider. Simple interest on the principle alone is more like a laser beam. It never gets wider.

That same $1,000 at 4 per cent a year on the original total would earn only $40 a year. After 200 years the total interest would be $8,000 and the total sum only $9,000.

Compounding, then, helps explain a lot of those very impressive charts that show how savings accounts soar over a period of years. It explains the "magic" of the stock market adviser who seems to coin money.

It explains also the basis of much established wealth and illustrates how some old families can live off the interest alone. It explains as well how a seeming pauper can leave an estate of $100,000.

After five years, however, your account will reach $2,201.90. You will have earned $209.90 in interest. If you maintain your quarterly schedule for 10 years, you will have $4,888.63, with $88.63 of that in interest.

But as time does its job, the interest accumulates with great speed. After 20 years you will have $12,167.15, of which $4,167.15 will be a profit through interest.

These figures are based on a 4 per cent annual rate. It is easily understood then how fortunes have been built with the higher rates on the stock market.

But higher rates generally mean higher risks also.

Asparagus Pimiento Dip Perfect for Entertaining

Special occasion entertaining deserves wise planning and careful attention to detail regardless of summer heat. But when temperatures soar, organize menu and preparation plans to follow the line of least resistance. Let convenience foods do the major share of work for you as they do in this delicious refreshment menu.

Asparagus Pimiento Dip, a velvet smooth, creamy flavor blend of asparagus, pimiento, and cream cheese, is the center of attraction. Make it in minutes with condensed cream of asparagus soup, that full-flavored, expertly seasoned soup so good for so many uses. Exceptionally good with this dip are carrot and celery sticks, cucumber and green pepper sticks as dippers.

To go along, a plate of tiny sandwiches made with canned chicken and ham spreads, then cut into fancy shapes, and glasses of iced tea.

ASPARAGUS PIMIENTO DIP
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of asparagus soup
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon minced pimiento
1 teaspoon minced onion
Vegetable dippers: carrot and celery sticks, cucumber and green pepper strips
In bowl, gradually blend soup into cream cheese until smooth;

DUV Members Hold Meeting Of Interest

The Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, 1861-1865, met at the home of Mrs. Polly Kerns, for their July meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Wignel conducted a short business session.

An interesting patriotic program was presented by the group. Mrs. Muriel Reichelderfer read a letter which was written by her grandfather, serving in the war, to his wife and family, December 1865. The concern of the soldier over a hundred years ago was the same as now, the welfare of his family and a quick end of the war.

A social hour followed with Mrs. Gertrude Webbe and Mrs. Ruth Wignel serving as hostesses.

Information concerning the August meeting will be announced at a later date.

Red China's leaders, seeming to hate just about everybody else, are playing with dynamite which could easily explode into big war in Asia.

Peking is steaming up trouble for her neighbors: Hong Kong, Burma, India, Macao, Thailand, Vietnam and Korea. Long-range, Red China also indicates intentions of resurrecting the severely damaged Communist party of Indonesia and heading it into another "people's war of liberation" in the style of Vietnam.

Potentially, the most dangerous activity at the moment is the turmoil Peking is stirring up in Britain's crown colony, Hong Kong.

It is difficult to fathom the reason for it. If the intention is eventually to force Britain out, a deadly dangerous situation would exist in British resistance or any U.S. involvement.

If Red China's regime were considered a rational one, the guessing would be that it had no intention of grabbing Hong Kong since the colony is important to trade and one of the most important sources of Peking's foreign exchange.

'Con Game' Up For Youth Who Impersonates Star

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—A boy with a voice like Ava Gardner's used it on the telephone to order hundreds of dollars in merchandise, police say.

When the bills came, Miss Gardner refused to pay.

Police arrested the 12-year-old boy at his home Thursday and booked him on suspicion of grand theft merchandise. Later, he was released into custody of his parents.

This is what juvenile court officers say the boy did:

For three months, identifying himself as the actress, he telephoned Columbia Studios and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and ordered television sets, manicure sets, $50 bouquets of flowers, an electric can opener and many other items.

The packages arrived daily. When the boy's parents became suspicious, he told them Miss Gardner had befriended him.

A Columbia movie worker who has known Miss Gardner for 17 years said the telephone voice was almost identical to the star's.

After the boy was traced, police Sgt. Henry C. Coffey said, he admitted it all.

Editor's Note—Bob Barker, who will be host for Saturday night's "Miss Universe Pageant" on CBS, currently holds some sort of a television record: concurrent host on two daily game shows, "Truth or Consequences," and ABC's new "Family Game." Here he tells of the possible pitfalls of the game show and its audience.

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A few years ago, on a televised game show, I asked the contestants to tell me their favorite jokes. As one man began an apparently innocent story, some sixth sense alerted me to danger. It was as if a red flag had gone up or a bell started clanging.

I stopped the storyteller in midsentence.

"I wish we had time to hear the rest of your joke," I told him. "But I'll be backstage after the show, and you can finish it then."

My premonition proved correct. The joke, had it gone over the air, would have slandered a nationality and prompted an avalanche of angry phone calls and letters.

This is the sort of tightrope a television emcee walks every day. On a quiz show, a beauty pageant, or any other informal program, there is no script and little preparation. Most of the contestants are enjoying their first taste of television exposure. Anything can happen.

Recently, for example, I appeared on "Truth or Consequences," holding a lion cub. As I approached the next contestant, a young housewife, a look of terror crossed her face.

"Take him away," she pleaded. "I'll be deathly ill. I'm allergic to cats."

My first thought was, somehow, to focus attention away from the frightened woman and spare her further embarrassment. Turning to a husky young man in the audience, I suggested, "How about taking her place, sir? You don't look as though you're allergic to anything."

Views on Television — Radio

The audience laughed and the tension evaporated.

Digging oneself out of a difficult situation isn't always that easy. But the real trick is not getting into deep water in the first place. It helps to keep in mind a few simple rules.

First, pay attention to what the other person is saying. All of us have suffered with the television host who's so busy thinking of his next witty remark that he doesn't listen to his guest.

Another rule is to obey the Boy Scout motto: "Be prepared." In the case of "Truth or Consequences," I select the contestants from the studio audience about 10 minutes before each show.

Once, while wandering through the audience, I encountered a young man with a pair of six-guns strapped around his waist.

"Bob, I've come here to investigate this show," he said. "I want to find out if it's rigged."

Obviously, we didn't choose him as a contestant. But he was invited backstage where he could see for himself that the game was spontaneous. Afterward I looked for the young man.

"The police took him away," the producer told me. "He's wanted for murder in Palm Springs. And, incidentally, his guns were loaded."

Drippings from a beef or veal roast, when they are not used for gravy, may be put in the freezer and used to enrich meat sauces.

Editor's Note—Bob Barker, who will be host for Saturday night's "Miss Universe Pageant" on CBS, currently holds some sort of a television record: concurrent host on two daily game shows, "Truth or Consequences," and ABC's new "Family Game." Here he tells of the possible pitfalls of the game show and its audience.

By BOB BARKER

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — A few years ago, on a televised game show, I asked the contestants to tell me their favorite jokes. As one man began an apparently innocent story, some sixth sense alerted me to danger. It was as if a red flag had gone up or a bell started clanging.

I stopped the storyteller in midsentence.

"I wish we had time to hear the rest of your joke," I told him. "But I'll be backstage after the show, and you can finish it then."

My premonition proved correct. The joke, had it gone over the air, would have slandered a nationality and prompted an avalanche of angry phone calls and letters.

This is the sort of tightrope a television emcee walks every day. On a quiz show, a beauty pageant, or any other informal program, there is no script and little preparation. Most of the contestants are enjoying their first taste of television exposure. Anything can happen.

Recently, for example, I appeared on "Truth or Consequences," holding a lion cub. As I approached the next contestant, a young housewife, a look of terror crossed her face.

"Take him away," she pleaded. "I'll be deathly ill. I'm allergic to cats."

My first thought was, somehow, to focus attention away from the frightened woman and spare her further embarrassment. Turning to a husky young man in the audience, I suggested, "How about taking her place, sir? You don't look as though you're allergic to anything."

The audience laughed and the tension evaporated.

Digging oneself out of a difficult situation isn't always that easy. But the real trick is not getting into deep water in the first place. It helps to keep in mind a few simple rules.

First, pay attention to what the other person is saying. All of us have suffered with the television host who's so busy thinking of his next witty remark that he doesn't listen to his guest.

Another rule is to obey the Boy Scout motto: "Be prepared." In the case of "Truth or Consequences," I select the contestants from the studio audience about 10 minutes before each show.

Once, while wandering through the audience, I encountered a young man with a pair of six-guns strapped around his waist.

"Bob, I've come here to investigate this show," he said. "I want to find out if it's rigged."

Obviously, we didn't choose him as a contestant. But he was invited backstage where he could see for himself that the game was spontaneous. Afterward I looked for the young man.

"The police took him away," the producer told me. "He's wanted for murder in Palm Springs. And, incidentally, his guns were loaded."

Drippings from a beef or veal roast, when they are not used for gravy, may be put in the freezer and used to enrich meat sauces.

Asparagus Pimiento Dip Perfect for Entertaining

Special occasion entertaining deserves wise planning and careful attention to detail regardless of summer heat. But when temperatures soar, organize menu and preparation plans to follow the line of least resistance. Let convenience foods do the major share of work for you as they do in this delicious refreshment menu.

Asparagus Pimiento Dip, a velvet smooth, creamy flavor blend of asparagus, pimiento, and cream cheese, is the center of attraction. Make it in minutes with condensed cream of asparagus soup, that full-flavored, expertly seasoned soup so good for so many uses. Exceptionally good with this dip are carrot and celery sticks, cucumber and green pepper sticks as dippers.

To go along, a plate of tiny sandwiches made with canned chicken and ham spreads, then cut into fancy shapes, and glasses of iced tea.

ASPARAGUS PIMIENTO DIP
1 can (10½ ounces) condensed cream of asparagus soup
1 package (8 ounces) cream cheese, softened
1 tablespoon minced pimiento
1 teaspoon minced onion
Vegetable dippers: carrot and celery sticks, cucumber and green pepper strips
In bowl, gradually blend soup into cream cheese until smooth;

DUV Members Hold Meeting Of Interest

The Daughters of the Union Veterans of the Civil War, 1861-1865, met at the home of Mrs. Polly Kerns, for their July meeting.

Mrs. Ruth Wignel conducted a short business session.

An interesting patriotic program was presented by the group. Mrs. Muriel Reichelderfer read a letter which was written by her grandfather, serving in the war, to his wife and family, December 1865. The concern of the soldier over a hundred years ago was the same as now, the welfare of his family and a quick end of the war.

A social hour followed with Mrs. Gertrude Webbe and Mrs. Ruth Wignel serving as hostesses.

Information concerning the August meeting will be announced at a later date.

Moore Family Holds Reunion

The annual Moore family reunion was held Sunday at the Clearport Community Club House. A basket dinner and fellowship at noon was enjoyed.

The afternoon program and business meeting was brought to order by William Strehle. Solos were sung by Mr. Strehle, Leona Lindsey and Bonnie Moore. Albert Fast and Lulu White sang a duet.

A game called "The Moore Family" was participated in by all present. They wrote their names on a leaf and then placed it on a tree.

Election of officers for the coming year was held.

Those attending were: Mr. and Mrs. Paul Fisher, Ray Stowers, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Moore and children; Mrs. Etta Moore and son; Mrs. Leafy Springer, Mrs. Ella Bauman, Mrs. Ethel Young, Mrs. Laura Larson and son, and three grandsons; Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Pierce and children; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Shaffer and children; Mr. and Mrs. Edward Rodgers and children; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Freisman and daughter; Mrs. Gertrude Evans; Mr. and Mrs. James Poling and Addison Martin and son, all of Lancaster.

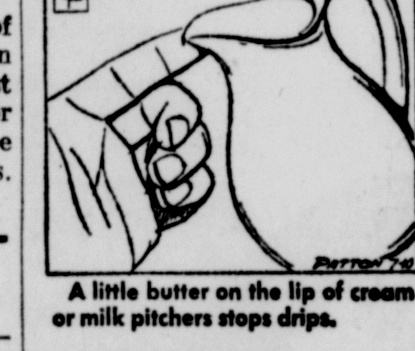

Mr. and Mrs. William Hickman, Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Holcomb; Mr. and Mrs. David Moore; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hodges and sons, and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Fast from Columbus.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fast and granddaughter; Mrs. Lulu White, Lowell Kneese and Ivan Ray from Laurelvile. Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mozingo, Sunbury; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fetherolf and children of Elmore; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kelly of Ashvocation, Sterling Fetherolf of Coshocton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wheeler of Malta, and Mr. and Mrs. William Strehle of Stoutsville.

Present from Amanda were: Mr. and Mrs. Giles Sisson, Sue Moore, Bonnie Moore, Ed Moore and Clint Moore; Mr. and Mrs. H. O. Hart and sons, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Johnson and sons; Mrs. Ada Wagner and daughter Frieda and Leona Lindsey.

Four guests included Mrs. Ina Marshall and Mrs. Margie Bashore and two children.

Troublemakers Could Foment Major War

China Pushing 'Hate Campaign'

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Red China's leaders, seeming to hate just about everybody else, are playing with dynamite which could easily explode into big war in Asia.

Peking is steaming up trouble for her neighbors: Hong Kong, Burma, India, Macao, Thailand, Vietnam and Korea. Long-range, Red China also indicates intentions of resurrecting the severely damaged Communist party of Indonesia and heading it into another "people's war of liberation" in the style of Vietnam.

Potentially, the most dangerous activity at the moment is the turmoil Peking is stirring up in Britain's crown colony, Hong Kong.

It is difficult to fathom the reason for it. If the intention is eventually to force Britain out, a deadly dangerous situation would exist in British resistance or any U.S. involvement.

If Red China's regime were considered a rational one, the guessing would be that it had no intention of grabbing Hong Kong since the colony is important to trade and one of the most important sources of Peking's foreign exchange.

'Con Game' Up For Youth Who Impersonates Star

CULVER CITY, Calif. (AP)—

A boy with a voice like Ava Gardner's used it on the telephone to order hundreds of dollars in merchandise, police say.

When the bills came, Miss Gardner refused to pay.

Police arrested the 12-year-old boy at his home Thursday and booked him on suspicion of grand theft merchandise. Later, he was released into custody of his parents.

This is what juvenile court officers say the boy did:

For three months, identifying himself as the actress, he telephoned Columbia Studios and Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer and ordered television sets, manicure sets, $50 bouquets of flowers, an electric can opener and many other items.

The packages arrived daily. When the boy's parents became suspicious, he told them Miss Gardner had befriended him.

A Columbia movie worker who has known Miss Gardner for 17 years said the telephone voice was almost identical to the star's.

After the boy was traced, police Sgt. Henry C. Coffey said, he admitted it all.

But many consider the current Peking regime far from rational under Mao Tse-tung, Lin Piao, Kang Sheng, Chen Pota and others who have banded together to dominate the country's armed forces and to purge opponents who might have been of a more cautious and practical turn of mind.

Hong Kong's Communists have been rioting and terrorizing to demonstrate their solidarity with Mao's "thinking" and his "great proletarian cultural revolution". It is unlikely that these Communists acted without instructions from Peking. Perhaps China's purpose is a limited objective: to force Britain out of the mainland New Territories which are held on lease until the end of this century.

China also has stirred up trouble in Burma, which has been ing to demonstrate their solidarity with Mao's "thinking" and his "great proletarian cultural revolution". It is unlikely that these Communists acted without instructions from Peking. Perhaps China's purpose is a limited objective: to force Britain out of the mainland New Territories which are held on lease until the end of this century.

China also has stirred up trouble in Burma, which has been steering as correct and neutral a policy as possible for a nation having a 1,200-mile frontier with China. Once again, the rioting of young Chinese in Rangoon must have been far from spontaneous, since it began with a sudden outburst of Mao badges and assaults on Burmese citizens.

China eyes South Korea as a potential arena of "people's war." In Thailand the Chinese support a budding "liberation war" movement in the northeast. In Laos they support the Communist Pathet Lao. In Vietnam, they arm the Viet Cong and threaten regularly to send "volunteers" against the Americans in the style of Korea.

This all could be part of an assertion of Chinese domination over the continent of Asia. The claim to such domination has become more strident since China became a nuclear power, and particularly since China achieved the wedding of a nuclear warhead to a missile and exploded a hydrogen bomb.

Local Baha'i Group Lists Weekly Thought

I have not come to bring peace but rather division; henceforth in one house they will be divided, in order that those who are genuine among you may be recognized. Scoffers following their own ungodly passions, devoid of the Spirit, set up divisions. They went out from us, but they are not of us; if they had been of us, they would have continued with us.

There are divisions among you; there is quarreling among you. You come together not for better but for worse. Every kingdom divided against itself is

Women Find Way To Beat Monotony

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Those four bare-legged women wielding crowbars are at it again.

W. J. Cooper describes his all-girl building demolition crew as "real equal rights, daddy-o."

The girls live in apartments owned by Cooper and volunteered for the wrecking assignment.

They are Ann Pearson, mother of three; her daughter Sheila Ann; Sue Brown, another mother of three; and Estelen Cushing, mother of five.

Saving their housework for evening, the women rip away at partitions, wreck brick walls and load salvage aboard trucks during the day.

"This isn't just a man's world, you know," Mrs. Pearson said.

"I used to have nice hands," said Mrs. Pearson, who also drives a truck for Cooper. "My husband won't hold them anymore."

laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. (Excerpts from The New Testament.)

Women Find Way To Beat Monotony
LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Those four bare-legged women welding crowbars are at it again.
W. J. Cooper describes his all-girl building demolition crew as "real equal rights, daddy-o."
The girls live in apartments owned by Cooper and volunteered for the wrecking assignment.
They are Ann Pearson, mother of three; her daughter Sheila Ann; Sue Brown, another mother of three; and Estelen Cushing, mother of five.
Saving their housework for evening, the women rip away at partitions, wreck brick walls and load salvage aboard trucks during the day.
"This isn't just a man's world, you know," Mrs. Pearson said.
There are a few disadvantages.
"I used to have nice hands," said Mrs. Pearson, who also drives a truck for Cooper. "My husband won't hold them anymore."
laid waste, and no city or house divided against itself will stand. (Excerpts from The New Testament.)

The length of a man's legs need not frustrate the strength of his purpose. By crawling one day, we are able to climb another.

There may have been spiritual giants like Saul of Tarsus who, in one overpowering experience, turned from violent resistance to fruitful service for Christ.

But there have been Doubting Thomases also . . . men and women who gradually, and only with the patience and help of God, found themselves in faithful service.

Don't be surprised, then, if an occasional visit to church has brought no remarkable change in your life.

But decide now to seek . . . earnestly . . . persistently . . .

Unheralded Astronauts Set For Crucial Orbital Trips

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — At Edwards Air Force Base, Calif., 12 unheralded American astronauts are preparing for orbital missions that will determine whether man has a military role in space—and whether space could become a battlefield.

They've waited many months, at times uncertain whether they'd ever take a space trip. But the Air Force's Manned Orbiting Laboratory (MOL) program finally appears to be on solid footing after years of debate over whether it was necessary.

Much of the opposition stemmed from a belief that the program might duplicate many experiments scheduled for space stations planned by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration.

And for a long time, the Air Force showed more enthusiasm than sound thinking about what military chores astronauts could perform.

The Defense Department now is convinced that space military experiments are unique and should no longer hitch a ride on a NASA ship.

The Air Force, after evaluating remarkable achievements of unmanned military satellites, has started assembling a concrete list of concepts and systems that astronauts can test.

The program received its biggest boost in May when the Air Force awarded contracts totaling $885 million for development work on the MOL spaceship.

In another forward move, the Air Force on June 30 named four new astronauts to join the original 12 in the training program. Included was this nation's first Negro astronaut.

Target date for the first manned MOL launching is 1970, nearly three years behind the original schedule. Five flights are planned, each with a two-man crew.

What these flights learn will determine whether there will be further military man-in-space projects.

Convinced that there will be, some Defense Department officials are pressing for more money to accelerate research and to build long lead-time hardware for advanced systems. They claim the nation's security may depend on it, to counter what is believed to be a strong Soviet effort in that direction.

The 16 military astronauts are not as well known as NASA's spacemen. That's the way the Defense Department wants it. Much of the MOL program is secret. It also is a sensitive thing to send men into space on military assignments when the United States has preached peaceful pursuits.

The launchings will be conducted under tight security behind high hills at Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. From Vandenberg, MOL can be launched into north-south polar orbit, a path on which it can overfly every area of the globe, a necessity for military operations.

Under present plans, there will be no live television coverage. Officials say that pictures of the shape of the rocket and spacecraft might compromise some experiments. Only a handful of selected newsmen may be permitted to watch the liftoff.

The two astronauts will man a modified Gemini capsule perched atop a 41-foot, 19,000-pound laboratory. The booster will be the Air Force's powerful and versatile Titan 3M rocket.

Once in orbit, the pilots will crawl through a hatch into the laboratory, doff their space suits and work in a shirt-sleeve atmosphere. At the end of the journey, the men will re-enter Gemini, detach it and fly back to earth. Each of the five crews plans to stay aloft about 30 days.

In space the astronauts will determine whether man is more effective at performing communications, reconnaissance, surveillance, navigation and mapping tasks now done by unmanned satellites.

They will work with laser beams, which could be developed as communications tools or death rays. They'll maneuver outside their space ship, and may test devices for escaping from a disabled ship. These ejection capsules could wait in orbit until rescue came from earth, or they might be designed to survive atmospheric re-entry and fly back to earth.

Advocates of a strong military space program believe that in most assignments man can outperform unmanned satellites. They note that many of America's Mercury and Gemini flights would have been terminated early if astronauts had not been aboard to correct problems.

They contend a man could spot and aim a knockout weapon at an enemy missile with greater accuracy than a computer. He also could direct sensors at likely reconnaissance targets and could sift out and relay important data to earth with interpretation.

Some Air Force officials foresee the day when America's global striking force may be controlled from a huge maneuverable command post in space.

"We may find," one said, "that this is the only survivable command and control structure. Should such a space-borne command post become necessary, it would have to be large enough to carry all electronic gear required to gather, process and disseminate operational information on a global basis. Also, it would have to be capable of defending itself against any interference or attacks from the ground or in space."

He said a skilled crew would be needed to search out suspected enemy weapon carriers in space, board them and, if necessary, neutralize them.

Some in the Air Force envisage large military installations in space. There would be elaborate communications facilities, sophisticated observation systems, workshops for repair, refueling and rearming of space battleships. This space fleet would be scattered thousands of miles in space, perhaps out to the planets, ready to fight a far-out war.

"Man has moved from the earth's atmosphere into space in an instant of time," a defense planner said. "We who have witnessed this scientific miracle must acknowledge that it could lead to developments that we cannot now define."

"Who could foresee what the first automobile, the first airplane would bring? Every time we have found a new way of doing something it has had a military application."

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Language Is No Barrier For Some

DEAR ABBY: I am 29 years old and O boy! to have a problem like this at my age shouldn't happen to a dog.

I am expecting a baby and I am not married. That's not all. The baby's father is Mexican and doesn't speak a word of English. He washes dishes in a restaurant. I don't speak any Spanish, so there is no communication between us at all.

Two questions: If my friend doesn't marry me, please send me the name of a home for unwed mothers near here. If he does marry me, we will keep the baby, so you can skip the home for unwed mothers. But I would like to know where he can go to learn English. I thank you.

NEEDS HELP
DEAR NEEDS: The home for unwed mothers nearest you is the Salvation Army's BOOTH MEMORIAL HOME. It is listed in your telephone directory. Your friend can learn English by enrolling in an adult education class at night school. And it might be a good idea for you to enroll in Spanish classes. It's time you two established some verbal communication.

DEAR ABBY: I've been going with a young man who is in service, and am very much interested in him. His tour of duty will be over in a few months, and there is a possibility of marriage involved. I haven't as yet introduced him to my mother because I am afraid of what she may think of him.

Please don't misunderstand, he has a lot of good qualities, but I'm afraid my mother will overlook them for the few faults he has. You see, his table manners are not exactly refined.

And he says, "I ain't." I can't bear to hurt his feelings by telling him. My only hope is that you can advise me on how to handle the situation.

LOVES HIM
DEAR LOVES: Suggest, as lovingly as you can, that he improve his table manners and gently offer to teach him. Then, ask his permission to correct him quietly when he says, "ain't." If you offer your help with love and in the proper spirit, he shouldn't feel "hurt." He should be grateful.

DEAR ABBY: Women are constantly on guard against the tall, dark, handsome type who have a reputation for sweeping a girl off her feet. But who would believe that a short, fat, 55-year-old, bald little man with dentures could come so close to ruining my life?

What did he have? Charm! His words were absolute poetry. He had me believing I was the most desirable woman on earth. (Ha! I am 48, skinny and look every bit my age.) You guessed it. I worked for him for years before we "discovered" each other. We are both married to others.

What brought me to my senses? One night I heard him tell his wife on the phone why he wouldn't be home for dinner. How convincingly he lied to her. Then I asked myself, "How can he be so false to her and true to me?" And then it ended.

Thank God, I saw the light. And now when I realize how many innocent people could have been hurt had I continued this affair, I shudder. Print this. Perhaps another woman is still trapped as I was.

The World Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Take your choice between slow and tremendous.

When Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, went to Vietnam last week to confer with the American commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the general told him: "The war is not a stalemate. We are winning slowly but steadily."

The North Vietnamese were the ones who called the war a stalemate.

This country has about 465,000 men in Vietnam and Westmoreland reportedly wanted 100,000 to 140,000 more. Word began to drift back from Saigon that McNamara thought Westmoreland's figures too high.

Then the general's mother died in South Carolina and he flew there for the funeral. McNamara returned, too. Thursday the two men, together with President Johnson, had a news conference at the White House.

None of them would reveal how many more men Westmoreland will get or, for that matter, exactly how many he requested. If it's true, as reported, that he wanted 100,000 to 140,000 he seems unlikely to get them.

If there were differences between Westmoreland and the Johnson administration the President sewed them together and put a shine on them.

He said: "We have reached a meeting of the minds."

But Johnson seemed irked by the North Vietnamese description of the war as a stalemate, a contradiction of Westmoreland's modest claim about a slow but steady victory.

Midway through the news conference the President told the general:

"I wonder if you could tell us what we have done in the last year and expect in the next year, very briefly. Touch on this 'stalemate' creature."

Westmoreland promptly appeared more optimistic than he did in Saigon when talking to McNamara. "The statement we are in a stalemate is a complete fiction," he said. "It is completely unrealistic."

Since Westmoreland has never said publicly exactly how many men he originally thought he needed, it is not clear whether he has been talked into taking less. Johnson's phrase about the "meeting of the minds" could be interpreted that way.

But what does seem clear is that the Johnson administration is trying to stick to a rule it laid down on military manpower last November before Westmoreland's present call for more troops.

At that time McNamara, looking ahead to 1967, said draft calls would be lower this year than in 1966. He repeated this Thursday. He also said something else last November.

It was this: While about 200,000 men were shipped to Vietnam in 1966, "the increase next year will be nothing of that order." And so far the figures bear him out.

By the end of 1966 there were 389,000 Americans in Vietnam. Now there are about 465,000, an increase of 76,000 with 1967 more than half over. Johnson and McNamara have made it plain another 20,000 to 30,000 would certainly be sent.

But they are deliberately vague on how many more will go after that.

One thing is certain: When Westmoreland publicly agreed to Johnson's statement that he will get the force he recommended he will never be able to blame Washington if it turns out

Asks Study of Federal Management Problems

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Jackson E. Betts of Ohio is among a group of Republicans who called Thursday for legislation to create a commission to study federal management problems.

He joined the campaign led by Rep. Charles Mathias, R-Md. who said organizational problems of the government "confuse local and state officials, consume the taxpayers' dollars, complicate the efforts of federal civil servants and dilute the effectiveness of many valuable programs."

By James Marlow

Johnson did not explain why he called the news conference. Perhaps its only purpose was to inform the public. Or, it may have been to thwart any criticism, now or later, that he wasn't fully backing Westmoreland.

Samurai Spirit Undergoes Change

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — Twice a week a group of budding Japanese executives hustle into a modern, three-story building off Tokyo's Ginza and go through a ritual.

They smile into mirrors, walk in circles, exercise, light and snuff off cigarettes or squat under sun lamps. Then they climb into mud, lemon or milk baths and get massaged. Their hair is fixed and their fingernails manicured.

For a nation that has traditionally upheld the Samurai spirit of masculine roughness, all this may appear somewhat effeminate.

But to the Yamano beauty salon, it's all part of a popular charm course for men.

Explains the general manager, Takaaki Yamano: "We teach them that charm can get them a promotion from their boss or, if they work hard enough, possibly a girl."

"Japanese men don't have what you could call a charming walk. They slouch, waddle or shuffle."

"They also don't have any manners."

"They shove women, and they light cigarettes by striking matches outward instead of toward themselves.

"They don't even know how to smile."

"They smile with their mouths, leaving their eyes as dead as those of canned fish." The salon tries to correct all this.

Its instructions for a correct smile: Cover the lower half of your face with a handkerchief and smile into a mirror until you develop "smiling eyes."

Just to make sure that students get a chance to develop their charms effectively, Yamano's instructors are all women.

"We believe that if you can charm any of them, you can charm anyone," explains Yamano.

What about the sun lamps, baths and other beautification treatments?

"A man is much more charming if he has a he-man sun tan, a clean skin, and is properly groomed," explains Yamano.

A three-month course costs $117.

The World Today

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON (AP)—Take your choice between slow and tremendous.

When Robert S. McNamara, secretary of defense, went to Vietnam last week to confer with the American commander, Gen. William C. Westmoreland, the general told him: "The war is not a stalemate. We are winning slowly but steadily."

The North Vietnamese were the ones who called the war a stalemate.

This country has about 465,000 men in Vietnam and Westmoreland reportedly wanted 100,000 to 140,000 more. Word began to drift back from Saigon that McNamara thought Westmoreland's figures too high.

Then the general's mother died in South Carolina and he flew there for the funeral. McNamara returned, too. Thursday the two men, together with President Johnson, had a news conference at the White House.

None of them would reveal how many more men Westmoreland will get or, for that matter, exactly how many he requested. If it's true, as reported, that he wanted 100,000 to 140,000 he seems unlikely to get them.

If there were differences between Westmoreland and the Johnson administration the President sewed them together and put a shine on them.

He said: "We have reached a meeting of the minds."

But Johnson seemed irked by the North Vietnamese description of the war as a stalemate, a contradiction of Westmoreland's modest claim about a slow but steady victory.

Midway through the news conference the President told the general:

"I wonder if you could tell us what we have done in the last year and expect in the next year, very briefly. Touch on this 'stalemate' creature."

Westmoreland promptly appeared more optimistic than he did in Saigon when talking to McNamara. "The statement we are in a stalemate is a complete fiction," he said. "It is completely unrealistic."

Since Westmoreland has never said publicly exactly how many men he originally thought he needed, it is not clear whether he has been talked into taking less. Johnson's phrase about the "meeting of the minds" could be interpreted that way.

But what does seem clear is that the Johnson administration is trying to stick to a rule it laid down on military manpower last November before Westmoreland's present call for more troops.

At that time McNamara, looking ahead to 1967, said draft calls would be lower this year than in 1966. He repeated this Thursday. He also said something else last November.

It was this: While about 200,000 men were shipped to Vietnam in 1966, "the increase next year will be nothing of that order." And so far the figures bear him out.

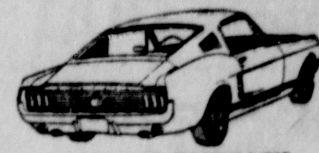

By the end of 1966 there were 389,000 Americans in Vietnam. Now there are about 465,000, an increase of 76,000 with 1967 more than half over. Johnson and McNamara have made it plain another 20,000 to 30,000 would certainly be sent.

But they are deliberately vague on how many more will go after that.

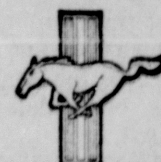

One thing is certain: When Westmoreland publicly agreed to Johnson's statement that he will get the force he recommended he will never be able to blame Washington if it turns out he doesn't have enough. Johnson did not explain why he called the news conference. Perhaps its only purpose was to inform the public. Or, it may have been to thwart any criticism, now or later, that he wasn't fully backing Westmoreland.

Samurai Spirit Undergoes Change

By ROBERT LIU

TOKYO (AP) — Twice a week a group of budding Japanese executives hustle into a modern, three-story building off Tokyo's Ginza and go through a ritual.

They smile into mirrors, walk in circles, exercise, light and snuff out cigarettes or squat under sun lamps. Then they climb into mud, lemon or milk baths and get massaged. Their hair is fixed and their fingernails manicured.

For a nation that has traditionally upheld the Samurai spirit of masculine roughness, all this may appear somewhat effeminate.

But to the Yamano beauty salon, it's all part of a popular charm course for men.

Explains the general manager, Takaaki Yamano: "We teach them that charm can get them a promotion from their boss or, if they work hard enough, possibly a girl."

"Japanese men don't have what you could call a charming walk. They slouch, waddle or shuffle."

"They also don't have any manners."

"They shove women, and they light cigarettes by striking

matches outward instead of toward themselves.

"They don't even know how to smile."

"They smile with their mouths, leaving their eyes as dead as those of canned fish."

The salon tries to correct all this.

Its instructions for a correct smile: Cover the lower half of your face with a handkerchief and smile into a mirror until you develop "smiling eyes."

Just to make sure that students get a chance to develop their charms effectively, Yamano's instructors are all women.

"We believe that if you can charm any of them, you can charm anyone," explains Yamano.

What about the sun lamps, baths and other beautification treatments?

"A man is much more charming if he has a he-man sun tan, a clean skin, and is properly groomed," explains Yamano.

A three-month course costs $117.

Dear Sir:

This letter is directed to that of Mr. Roy Strawser's that appeared in this paper a few days ago. I hope it clears up the faulty thinking of him and those who concur with him.

Since Mr. Strawser seems to enjoy considerable rapport with the Pickaway County Commissioners and has such an interest in Berger Hospital, it seems to me that he should have used some of that rapport recently. By recently I mean when the commissioners decided to spend $23,000 for a face-lifting job on the Courthouse and the other county facility at its rear. And where was the voice of Mr. Strawser a couple of years ago when Berger Hospital was in financial difficulties and about to be closed? As can be recalled there was no money available to alleviate the deficit. The Herald quoted the words of the commissioners to that effect. When it was revealed that the county was buying real estate at the time — the Shane and Heine property here in Circleville — public pressure forced a show-down and the commissioners went to the aid of Berger Hospital.

Therefore, I think it can be understood that Mr. Strawser's interest in Berger is not shared by the commissioners in the same degree. The $23,000 being spent for sandblasting and the $25,000 for property a couple of years ago proves the fact.

There seems to be much confusion in the minds of people here as to what constitutes an airport. By no stretch of the imagination can those airstrips existing in this community be considered as such. They were designed for light aircraft and are in no way sufficient to our needs.

It is being repeated over and over by people here that it takes only an hour to get to the airport in Columbus. Such statements imply that we are on a one-way street — "out." Isn't it about time we start thinking about a way in? I am sure one is as important as the other.

The latter could be even more so. For instance, when a piece of equipment is needed by one of our industries in time of an emergency, or at a time of power failure as happened in New York State a few years ago. Or in case of local or national disaster. In case of war or atomic attack when the deployment of military personnel and equipment will tax every transportation facility to the utmost. And to move the masses of civilians at such times to places of safety etc., will complicate things even farther.

And to those who think none of the above will ever involve us of this community, I say — "You are the most complacent of the complacent and are out of touch with the times."

The statement in the aforementioned letter that business and industry would be the only ones to profit from an airport is entirely wrong. When it is considered that the business and industry situated here is our very bread and butter, pumping vast amounts of money into our economy, such reasoning is shortsighted to an extreme.

When we say let business build its own airport, we resort to the let-John-do-it philosophy and show our ingratitude when gratitude should be forthcoming.

Through payrolls consumers are made. The consumption of food involves the farmer's products, contributing to his financial welfare. Therefore, without payrolls there would be no farmers. Do I need to go any farther in refuting the statement that the farmer has nothing to gain from our having an airport?

In closing I wish to remark on a news item of a couple of days ago that appeared in this paper. Its opening paragraph is as follows: "While Ohio's sales and use tax soared to a new high in the fiscal 1966-67, Pickaway County was one of only five counties that failed to gain in sales tax collections over the year." The account further states that we were four per cent off. I wonder why?

Sincerely,
FRED BOWSER

General Tele Delays DDD For Amanda

Keith Wagner, district commercial manager of General Telephone Company, announced that direct distance dialing (DDD) service for Amanda residents has been delayed until Apr. 21, 1968.

"An extended work stoppage resulting from the recent prolonged strike by the International Assn. of Machinists has delayed production schedules of a major telephone equipment manufacturer. This has forced us to postpone our plans to introduce DDD this coming November as previously announced", said Wagner.

Wagner said General Telephone had ordered necessary equipment for the project in time to permit delivery, installation and testing well in advance of the original completion date.

"The manufacturer", Wagner said, "has not resumed production at peak capacity to speed completion of orders. Under accelerated production schedule, General Telephone will be able to furnish DDD in Amanda in April 1968."

"WHILE we regret the delay in the new project for Amanda, we are making every possible effort to speed completion at the earliest possible time and eliminate any inconvenience to our customers."

The inception of DDD was to have been a part of a $250,000 service expansion and improvement program for the Amanda exchange. Included in the program is a new telephone building and extensive outside cable construction.

Direct distance dialing will permit Amanda phone users to dial long distance direct to more than 100 million telephones in the United States and Canada.

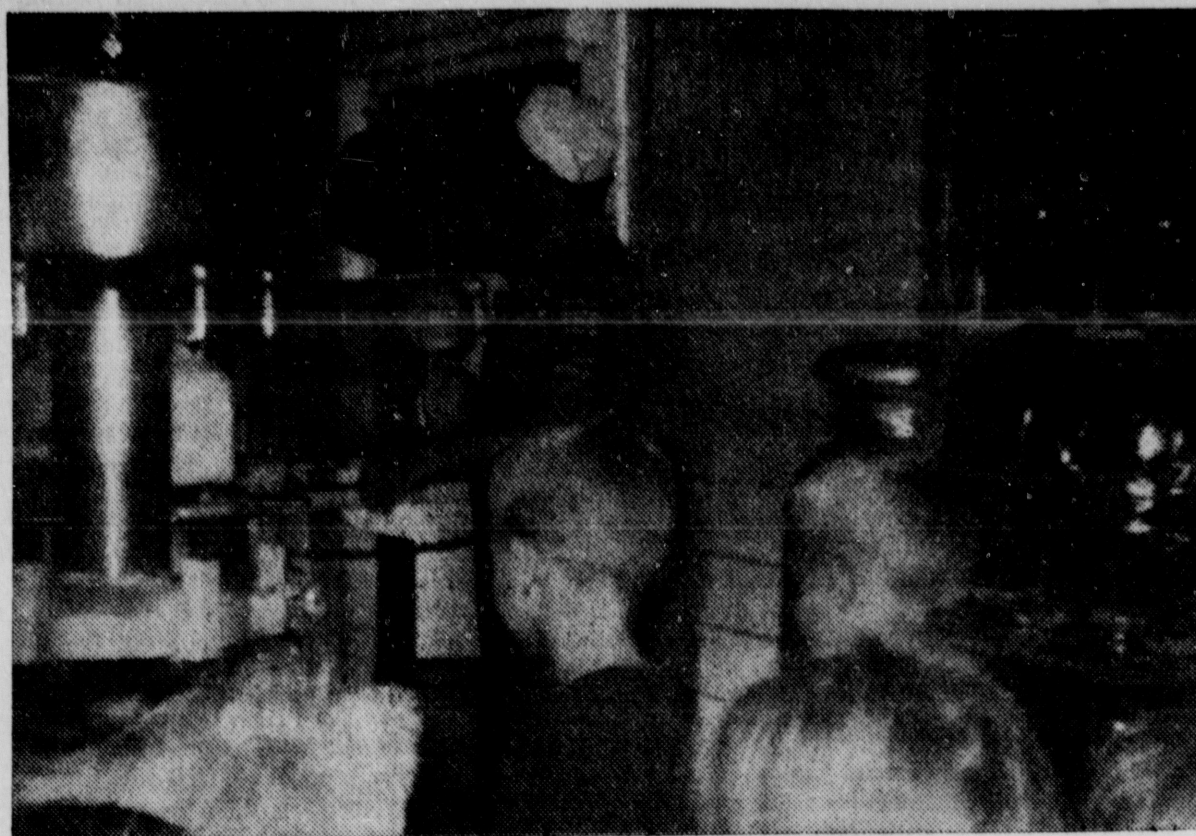

Wagner also said the numbers in the Amanda exchange will be changed when the switch to new facilities takes place next April. He said all subscribers will be given advance notice of the number exchange and informed of their new numbers.

Court Docket Lists 6 Cases

Circleville Municipal Court traffic violation docket was light, with only six persons cited Thursday. Five were out-of-county residents.

A total of $117 was collected. Betty Pence, 26, of 145 Highland Ave., was fined $8 and costs for speeding 43 miles an hour in a 35 mile zone.

John G. Morgan, 38, Warren, O., forfeited a $24 bond for not having safety chains on his trailer.

Escort Whites From Congo

Believe Others Still Held Captive

KINSHASA, The Congo (AP)

Two Red Cross planes brought 28 Americans and Europeans to Kinshasa from Kisangani Thursday night after mutinous mercenaries who had controlled the northeast Congo city for eight days fled.

One American, Mrs. Ben Hobgood of Lexington, Ky., said she thought two or three Europeans from Kisangani had accompanied the mercenaries. She also said she thought four Europeans had been killed after the mercenaries and rebellious Katangan troops took over the Kisangani airport and part of the city — formerly Stanleyville — on July 5.

The two C46 transport planes also carried 68 wounded Congolese army soldiers. Twenty-one of them were taken off on stretchers and taken to hospitals.

The flight of the mercenaries from Kisangani apparently ended the rebellion.

The military uprisings at Kisangani, Bukavu and Kindu followed the hijacking of a plane in Europe carrying former Premier Moise Tshombe. Tshombe has been held in Algeria since June 30 and the Congo, which sentenced him in Absentia to death for treason, has been trying to extradite him.

The mercenaries and Katangan soldiers are believed to be partisans of Tshombe, who led mineral-rich Katanga Province in an attempt at secession after the Congo got its independence from Belgium in 1960. As premier of the Congo in 1964, Tshombe used the mercenaries to quell a leftist rebellion in the northeast and they remained in the Congolese army after he was overthrown.

No Funds for Marion Park Disturbs Representative

Pickaway-Ross County Representative Myrl Shoemaker told The Herald Thursday that no appropriations for the coming biennium have been requested for A. W. Marion State Park.

Shoemaker voiced his disapproval and disappointment with the administration of Governor James E. Rhodes for neglecting the local recreational facility.

"When the Governor was in Pickaway County boosting his bond issues, he made promises he could not keep," Shoemaker stated.

"A. W. Marion State Park was used as a means of gaining support for his bond issues."

THE 1965-71 Ohio Capital improvements plan listed improvements at Hargus Lake which would cost an estimated $875,000 over the six-year period.

The present six-year capital improvements plan makes no mention of the Pickaway County located lake Shoemaker emphasized.

The old plan proposed by the Natural Resources stated the local park site had "considerable potential", but noted that it was essential that additional land be acquired for access and public use facilities.

The legislature in 1965 appropriated $60,000 for land acquisition. None of it was spent. "The Department of Natural Resources said the cost of the land was too high," Shoemaker told The Herald.

"But I don't think they really made an honest effort to buy the land. If they thought the price was unfair, they had recourse to the local courts through the process of condemnation."

"I believe that money was spent elsewhere on other projects and was just not available."

In addition to the $60,000 appropriated for land acquisition, the legislature also appropriated $50,000 for capital improvements.

According to a report from the department, $45,200 of that

The 47-year-old Hawkins is the first Negro to reach that position in the Cincinnati public schools. He has been in charge of federal aid programs for the schools since 1964, and will take over his new $17,500 job fulltime on Jan. 1.

amount was spent. Improvements which have been completed and are under way include the construction of a new boat ramp at the park and enlargement and improvement of parking facilities.

"If Hargus Lake improvements were so important in 1965, when the Governor was pushing for passage of his proposed bond issues, why is it not important now?" Shoemaker asked.

Shoemaker said that through discussions with the late Ed Wallace and with Roy Huffer, past state representatives, he learned that Hargus Lake has never figured prominently in appropriations by the Department of Natural Resources.

Man Found After Search Of River

Circleville Police and Pickaway County Sheriff's Deputies were searching the Scioto River south of the Route 22 bridge Thursday afternoon in efforts to find the body of an alleged suicide victim.

The "victim", very much alive, was picked up by authorities on W. Main St. near the railroad tracks two and a half hours after dragging operations began.

At 2:30 p. m. City Patrolman Richard Blaney answered a call on Maplewood Ave. Two young boys told the officer they were approached by a man who asked them to hold his coat as he was "going to commit suicide."

The man has been identified as William Muddiman, 32, Detroit, Mich. In a session at Municipal Court earlier Thursday, he was tried and convicted on a charge of intoxication and having an open container of alcoholic beverage in a car. The sentence and fine were both suspended, according to Police.

When the search began, Muddiman's coat was found hanging over the handlebars of the bicycles the two boys had left behind.

A letter, a wine bottle and a pair of shoes were also found on the river bank. Tracks were observed at the water's edge where someone had slipped into the river.

Two and a half hours later, the "victim" was picked up by authorities on W. Main St. Muddiman told Sheriff Dwight Radcliff that he swam across the river and climbed out the other side.

Authorities here suspect Muddiman to be a mental patient from Michigan and investigation of his record is under way.

One American, Mrs. Ben Hobgood of Lexington, Ky., said she thought two or three Europeans from Kisangani had accompanied the mercenaries. She also said she thought four Europeans had been killed after the mercenaries and rebellious Katangan troops took over the Kisangani airport and part of the city — formerly Stanleyville — on July 5.

The two C-46 transport planes also carried 68 wounded Congolese army soldiers. Twenty-one of them were taken off on stretchers and taken to hospitals.

The flight of the mercenaries from Kisangani apparently ended the rebellion.

The military uprisings at Kisangani, Bukavu and Kindu followed the hijacking of a plane in Europe carrying former Premier Moise Tshombe. Tshombe has been held in Absentia since June 30 and the Congo, which sentenced him in Absentia to death for treason, has been trying to extradite him.

The mercenaries and Katangan soldiers are believed to be partisans of Tshombe, who led mineral-rich Katanga Province in an attempt at secession after the Congo got its independence from Belgium in 1960. As premier of the Congo in 1964, Tshombe used the mercenaries to quell a leftist rebellion in the northeast and they remained in the Congolese army after he was overthrown.

Twedy Time Finds Pace Too Fast

Twedy Time, owned by Donald L. and Carl E. Riffle of Circleville, found the pace a little too fast Thursday in the second division of the Scioto Challenge Stake No. 6 for 2-year-old pacers.

The daughter of Times Square finished ninth in the 10-horse field. Forrest Short was the driver. The race was won in 2:02 1-5 by Ozzie Hanover, trained and driven by Gene Riegle.

In a preliminary non-betting race at the Downs, Roundtown, owned by John Fissell and driven by Short, finished third. Time of the heat was 2:10 and it was won by Little Jerry Way, driven by Dick Buxton.

Short also drove Sara Ann Scotch in the fifth race, finishing seventh.

Jim Arledge captured the winners share of the $1,000 purse in the seventh race driving Aceway Captain to a win in 2:04 3-5. Paying $40, $22.20 and $11.20 at the mutual window, the time was a new life record for the four-year-old son of Aceway Scott.

At Scioto tonight, Arledge will be driving Harry The First in the second race, O. C.'s Berry in the third race and Dixie Crystal in the ninth.

Other local horseman scheduled tonight include Porter Martin, who will be reining Circle Air in the fourth race, Emmitt Ebenhack with Countess Jerri in the fifth race and Short, who has Hilo's Misty, also in the fifth race.

Hill Hurls Lindsey Win

Lindsey Bake Shop moved up in the Babe Ruth League Thursday by dropping L. M. Butch, 12-3.

The Bakers are now 7-3 in loop play. Leader is Kiwanis, 7-2, with a game tonight.

Mike Hill worked the mound for Lindsey, issuing three bases on balls and seven fans, scattering six hits.

Bill Thomas and Mike Yates split duties for Butch, walking six, striking out six allowing 12 hits.

Pat Whaley homered twice and doubled for Lindsey. Dumm tripled for Butch.

Guardiola Takes Cleveland Lead

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer
CLEVELAND (AP) — Dandy Dick Guardiola, a Cleveland public relations man who grew up in Oklahoma, was a step closer today to nailing down the Ohio Amateur Golf Championship.

The 30-year-old bachelor carried a two-stroke advantage into the final round of the state tournament with at least a half dozen competitors in hot pursuit.

Guardiola was five over par for 54 holes with a 218 score.

He had a spotty round Thursday with four bogeys and two birds and needed a curling 10-foot putt to get his par on the 18th hole. That gave him a 73 to add to previous rounds of 75 and 70.

Guardiola, who lives in suburban Shaker Heights and won the Cleveland District crown in 1964, was born in Detroit, lived later in Oklahoma before moving to the Buckeye State at the age of 13.

He was bidding to stave off the challenges of four rivals locked at 220. They were unheralded Jackie Frost of Portsmouth, Dr. Harry Duccilli of Cincinnati, Fritz Schmidt of Columbus and newspaper executive Art Hudnutt of Elyria.

Frost, playing in his first

Amateur, was even with Guardiola going to 18 when disaster struck. He overshot the green with a five-iron, the ball landing in a blue spruce tree. That cost the 28-year-old insurance salesman a stroke and when he missed a six-foot putt he closed with a double bogey.

Duccilli, who lost in the 1959 finals to two-time king Tony Blom of Cincinnati, shot back into contention with a 70. Schmidt needed 75 strokes while Hudnutt came in with a 73 after missing a 2 1/2-foot birdie putt on No. 18.

Still in the race at 221 was Bob Afton, the 21-year-old Ohio State student, while John Fisher of Dayton, Dudley Humphrey of Cleveland, Lalu Sabotin of Warren and Blom were deadlocked at 222.

Sabotin, the current State Public Links king, skied to a 78. He was the midway leader by one stroke.

Another contender was Dick Flockenzier of Mansfield, the 1965 Amateur titlist, who slumped to a 77. He stood at 223.

Poor weather plagued the players. Winds up to 30 miles per hour made conditions difficult on Wednesday while Thursday's play was delayed 40 minutes by rain and lightning.

Herald Hawks Extend Win Skein in Little League

The Herald Hawks maintained their hold on the Little League Majors with a 12-0 shut out of Elks Thursday.

Purina edged Bingman Drugs, 7-6, and Coke topped American Legion, in other action.

The Hawks now have won nine in a row. Closest competitor is Bingman, 6-3.

Dave Truex pitched the win for the Herald team, walking two, fanning 15 and allowing only two hits, both singles.

DAVE Webb was touched for 13 hits on the Elks' mound, fanning eight and walking six.

Truex homered and doubled for the Hawks. John Walker and Dana Carley tripled and Tom Shea doubled.

Purina needed extra frames to whip Bingman. The score was knotted, 6-6, after six innings. The Chowmen marked one in the top of the seventh and

Swimmers Cop Meet

The Circleville Swim Team swam and dived to a 305-222 victory over the Grove City Swim Team in the local pool Thursday.

In the 53-event meet, the Circleville club gathered in 31 firsts. The divers scored four firsts, and in the all important relays, Circleville scored six firsts out of 16 events.

In freestyle, Circleville had four firsts, and in the backstroke, five firsts. In Butterfly, the locals were able to get only three firsts, but in their top stroke, the breaststroke, Circleville won all 8 events, in addition to getting seven seconds and one third.

Today, Debbie Shea, Circleville breaststroke star, will take part in the Wright Patterson Air Force Invitational at Dayton. Saturday two more local swim stars, Eric Fortell and Mark Ralston will take part in the second day of the Air Force meet. Fortell will swim breaststroke and Ralston the freestyle.

Next week, the local swim team will travel to Columbus Monday and Tuesday for the Jr. Olympics.

Circleville's season record in Central Ohio Swim League competition is 1-1-1.

Nicklaus Holds Share of Lead, But Not Happy

Competition Grows Tougher as 58 Survive Cutoff

HOYLAKE, England (AP)—Jack Nicklaus marched into the final 36 holes of this British Open golf championship with a share of the lead, but still far from satisfied.

"I've not played a good round yet, not really," said the 27-year-old Ohio strongboy after shooting a brilliant 69 Thursday over Hoylake's 6,995-yard par 72 course.

Halfway through defense of the title he won at Muirfield in Scotland a year ago, Nicklaus was four under par and threatening to create some golf history.

A long hitter, he never needed it here just as he never did at Muirfield. There he needed finesse. Here, even the great Bobby Jones needed length and stamina because of the seaside winds and rain.

Just as at Muirfield, Nicklaus inherited a week of hot sun, high humidity, scarcely any breeze and no rain at all.

Nicklaus, the reigning U. S. Open champ, still was not in complete charge. With him at 140 was Bruce Devlin of Australia, who fired two straight 70s.

At 141 were Argentina's Roberto de Vicenzo, Scotland's Jimmy Hume and England's Lionel Platts and Fred Boobyer.

Tony Jacklin of England, who is striving to crash the American circuit, was at 142. Gary Player of South Africa and Clive Clark, 22-year-old fledgling of British professional golf, were at 143. Six were tied at par 144, including Doug Sanders of the United States.

Fifty-eight players survived the cutoff of 149 and ties. The Americans included Nicklaus, Sanders and Phil Rodgers at 147, Bert Yancey of Philadelphia, and Deane Bema, Bethesda, Md., at 148.

Gay Brewer, the Masters champion, shot himself out of it with a horrid 80. So did veterans Bob Sweeney, Palm Beach, Fla. and Bob Falkenburg, Los Angeles, with 156 each.

Stoutsville Tops Pickaway, 26-20

Stoutsville Minors won a scoring duel with Pickaway, 26-20, and Laurelville tripped Washington, 11-9, in Tri-County League.

Toby Davis was winning Stoutsville hurler, fanning 11, walking nine and allowing 15 hits. Barr took the loss for Pickaway, striking out nine, walking 19 and scattering 16 safeties.

Davis tripled and doubled for Stoutsville. Doug Konkle doubled for Pickaway.

Tony Haughn homered and doubled for Laurelville. Tony Mosley tripled. Seven other Laurelville hits were held up at first base.

Scott Weaver tagged one of Washington's five hits, a double.

Tension High as Reds, Mets Split Twi-Nighter

Bristol, Umpires Keep Distance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nobody's drawing any lines on the ground, but umpires do like to keep their distance from tobacco-chewing Dave Bristol during those arguments that erupt over plays in a baseball game.

The Cincinnati Reds' young manager let the secret slip after Thursday night's twi-nighter. The Reds lost the opener to the New York Mets 7-3, and bounced back to win the night 6-3.

In the seventh inning of the first game, Bristol stormed on the field after Larry Stahl made a circus catch on Vada Pinson's fly ball. The bases were loaded at the time with two out and the Mets led 7-3.

As Bristol came up to Ed Sudol to argue that Stahl dropped the ball when he hit the ground, he halted briefly.

"I told him I didn't have any tobacco in my mouth," he said later. "I was chewing gum. I didn't get close to him anyway. But I was chewing tobacco in the second game."

Asked to explain, Bristol admitted he had "got told off" in a letter from National League headquarters about getting too close to umpires.

There was no comment from the umpires about the new distance rule, but Sudol maintained ed Bristol had no case.

Stahl made a fantastic catch," Sudol said. "He hit against the fence and somersaulted. He had the ball in his hand. He didn't drop it."

Stahl drove in three of the Mets' runs with his first season homer in the sixth inning of the opener. Tommy Davis socked two solo home runs for the Mets and Tony Perez homered for Cincinnati with a mate aboard.

Nobody hit a home run in the nightcap, but there were plenty of other hits and Bristol said he was highly pleased about the way Perez and Pete Rose got their hits together.

In the second game, Jim Maloney (7-5) had no trouble with the Mets until his control collapsed in the seventh. The Reds got their runs three at a time in the first and fifth innings.

Floyd Robinson started the first rally with a one-out bunt. He went to third on Rose's single and scored when Perez doubled.

That hit sent Rose to third and he came home when Deron Johnson hit into a fielder's choice. Lee May's double accounted for the third run.

A lead-off bunt by Rose started the fifth-inning rally. The nimble second baseman scored when Stahl let Perez' single get through him for an error.

May was walked purposely one out later and the Reds' next two runs scored on singles by Tommy Helms and Maloney. Sammy Ellis (6-6) was charged with the Reds' loss in the opener.

Jack Fisher (6-9) is scheduled to work tonight's game against the Reds' Gary Nolan (7-2).

Tension High as Reds, Mets Split Twi-Nighter

Bristol, Umpires Keep Distance

CINCINNATI (AP) — Nobody's drawing any lines on the ground, but umpires do like to keep their distance from tobacco-chewing Dave Bristol during those arguments that erupt over plays in a baseball game.

The Cincinnati Reds' young manager let the secret slip after Thursday night's twi-nighter. The Reds lost the opener to the New York Mets 7-3, and bounced back to win the night 6-3.

In the seventh inning of the first game, Bristol stormed on the field after Larry Stahl made a circus catch on Vada Pinson's fly ball. The bases were loaded at the time with two out and the Mets led 7-3.

As Bristol came up to Ed Sudol to argue that Stahl dropped the ball when he hit the ground, he halted briefly.

"I told him I didn't have any tobacco in my mouth," he said later. "I was chewing gum. I didn't get close to him anyway. But I was chewing tobacco in the second game."

Asked to explain, Bristol admitted he had "got told off" in a letter from National League headquarters about getting too close to umpires.

There was no comment from the umpires about the new distance rule, but Sudol maintained Bristol had no case.

Stahl made a fantastic catch," Sudol said. "He hit against the fence and somersaulted. He had the ball in his hand. He didn't drop it."

Stahl drove in three of the Mets' runs with his first season homer in the sixth inning of the opener. Tommy Davis socked two solo home runs for the Mets and Tony Perez homered for Cincinnati with a mate aboard.

Nobody hit a home run in the nightcap, but there were plenty of other hits and Bristol said he was highly pleased about the way Perez and Pete Rose got their hits together.

In the second game, Jim Maloney (7-5) had no trouble with the Mets until his control collapsed in the seventh. The Reds got their runs three at a time in the first and fifth innings.

Floyd Robinson started the first rally with a one-out bunt. He went to third on Rose's single and scored when Perez doubled.

That hit sent Rose to third and he came home when Deron Johnson hit into a fielder's choice. Lee May's double accounted for the third run.

A lead-off bunt by Rose started the fifth-inning rally. The nimble second baseman scored when Stahl let Perez' single get through him for an error.

Ozzie Hanover equaled the track record for 2-year-olds with a 1 1/4 length victory in 2:02 1-5. Twilight Walk and Marga Frisco (1-4) combined for a $26.20 daily double.

Ozzie Hanover Hits Record Time

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Tar Mite, Ozzie Hanover and Golden Money maker won their respective divisions of the $21,000 Challenge Stakes for 2-year-olds at Scioto Downs Thursday night.

Ozzie Hanover equaled the track record for 2-year-olds with a 1 1/4 length victory in 2:02 1-5. Twilight Walk and Marga Frisco (1-4) combined for a $26.20 daily double.

May was walked purposely one out later and the Reds' next two runs scored on singles by Tommy Helms and Maloney. Sammy Ellis (6-6) was charged with the Reds' loss in the opener.

Jack Fisher (6-9) is scheduled to work tonight's game against the Reds' Gary Nolan (7-2).

Central Ohio
Outstanding 200 Acre
Country Estate

One of Fayette County's finest farms — a farm known throughout the state for its beauty and productivity. The stately two-story brick colonial home was completely remodeled nine years ago and is exquisitely decorated to the taste of the most discriminating buyer. The main home has a living room with imported chandelier, wall-to-wall carpeting, fireplace, French doors, music room, entrance hall with cherry staircase, dining room, den, breakfast room, completely equipped Frigidaire kitchen, half-bath and enclosed porch with Andersen window-walls. The second floor features three bedrooms, master bedroom and adjoining dressing room and master bath. To the rear of the home is a guest house consisting of a modern one-floor-plan home with living room, dining room, kitchen, two ceramic-tiled baths, and two large bedrooms. Other outstanding features include patios, gardens, blacktop circle driveway, garage, 8-stall horse barn, tenant house, and several miles of white-board fencing all in first-class condition and well painted. The 200 acre farm has 180 tillable acres which lie level with frontage on major state highway.

Priced to settle an estate and shown by appointment only to qualified purchasers.

Ryun Won't
Compete in Pan-Am Trials

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Despite the apparent refusal of world premier miler Jim Ryun to compete, the U.S. Pan-American track and field trials open at the University of Minnesota Saturday with a crack field that includes three men world record holders.

No word had been received from Ryun by Friday, and U.S. Olympic Committee officials concluded the Kansas great would not appear despite last-ditch efforts to persuade him to enter.

"Coach Bob Timmons and I sat down and talked about this last April," Ryun said in a recent interview. "We decided it would not be possible to take part in all the meets this year — there were just too many."

"We announced as early as May 1 that I would not run in the Pan-American Games because I would need this three-week period after the United States — British Commonwealth meet to train and prepare for my part on the U.S. team which will tour Europe," Ryun added.

Ryun's decision is both irritating and embarrassing to U.S. officials, who have difficulty explaining to other nations why such a "name" athlete won't represent his country in the Pan-American games at Winnipeg later this month.

In the field of 101 men and 45 women competing here Saturday and Sunday for berths on the U.S. team going to Winnipeg are long jumper Ralph Boston, shot putter Randy Matson and pole vaulter Paul Wilson, all of whom hold the world records in their events.

Despite the absence of Ryun, hurdler Richmond Flowers, sprinters Charlie Green and Tommie Smith, distance runner Gerry Lindgren and 400-meter star Jack Kemp, U.S. officials feel they will take one of the strongest American teams yet to the Pan-Am games.

Pinson Baseball
Manager's Dream

CINCINNATI (AP) — When Vada Pinson ran to his outfield position in 1958 for the first time as a Cincinnati Red, the fans got their first looked at one of those much-lauded "players who come to play."

Since that day, the quiet, unobtrusive Californian has played 1,334 games and missed only 26. He had perfect attendance in four seasons. Once he played in 508 consecutive games ending May 31, 1962.

Pinson's longest absence from the lineup was seven games in 1962. He has missed four games so far this year, three of them in May when he injured his leg.

He has made more than 200 hits in four seasons and batted .343 in 1961 when the Reds won the National League pennant. He is batting .276 now with a career batting average of .299.

Athletics Head Named

ATHENS, Ohio (AP) — Ron Partridge, 33, was named athletic director of Athens High School Thursday. He has been an elementary school principal here for two years and before that was basketball and baseball coach at Lucasville Valley High School near Portsmouth. He had carried his Lucasville baseball team to the Class A State Finals in 1965.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 14, the 195th day of 1967. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1965, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson collapsed and died on a London street.

On this date:

In 1789, citizens of Paris stormed Bastille prison.

In 1798, Congress passed the Sedition Act of 1798 making it a federal crime to publish false, scandalous and malicious writing against the government.

In 1853, President Franklin Pierce opened the World's Fair in New York City.

In 1960, Lyndon B. Johnson was nominated for the vice presidency by the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

In 1963, the U.S. Mariner 4 made a flight past Mars.

Ten years ago — A Soviet ship, Eshghabad, ran aground in a Caspian Sea storm and 270 drowned.

One year ago — Eight student nurses were slain in Chicago.

She's Got Real Speed

FREDERICK, Okla. (AP) — Mattie Rhine, 93, wouldn't think of getting on one of those propeller airplanes that hop from place to place.

"Regular planes are getting too slow for me, so now I go by jet," says Mrs. Rhine, a great-grandmother.

She recently left Oklahoma City for her sixth jet flight to California. She says she spends most of her time visiting her offspring.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative
21st District

The House Finance Committee last night passed out the Capital Improvement Appropriation Bill. Since some of the testimony before the committee indicated that several projects promoted by the Governor in obtaining votes for the bond issue passed by the voters in 1963 and 1965 have been dropped or indefinitely postponed, I am preparing a list of these projects in order to determine the extent of this deception, and how it affects projects in our county. Improvements at Hargus Lake and A. W. Marion Park are deleted in the administration's Appropriation Bill.

Although I have not finished the lengthy list of projects, tabulations show that money appropriated by the legislature for parks and recreational facilities were diverted to other projects by the Governor's Board of Control.

A bill to authorize one or more school district boards of education to employ licensed optometrists to test school children for visual defects and make recommendations for correction to parents or guardians, passed this week. Personal authorized under present law to conduct physical examination of public school children are physicians, dentists, and registered nurses.

John Coleman, Executive Director of the Ohio Municipal League said it was obvious that municipalities would lose in the long run if a one per cent tax on income for counties was passed. "Municipal income tax has been the salvation of cities," Coleman declared. Many cities, according to Coleman, are thinking of raising their present tax and, if counties entered the field, it would jeopardize their very existence.

Other measures still needing approval by the assembly are: An apportionment proposal to be submitted to the people this November, a school foundation proposal expected to call for about $180 million in public school money, and air and water pollution measures. The apportionment proposal will be the third attempt to get voter approval for state wide districting. The school foundation money will have to be approved a part of the state tax package. The air and water pollution measures have each been approved by their respective committees. It is expected that final action on these measures will be taken prior to adjournment.

OSU Boards OK Building Contracts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's board of trustees Thursday ratified construction contract awards totaling $7.66 million for five OSU building projects.

Largest of the projects were a Horticulture, Forestry and Food Technology Center to be built on the west campus, for which low bids totaled $3,015,792 and the first building in the proposed University College complex for the west campus for which low bids totaled $3,011,447.

German Church-State Rift Widens; Religions Suffer

By HUBERT J. ERB

BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communist regime remains locked in a struggle with religion that lies largely beneath the surface but sometimes shoots off sparks like a smoldering volcano.

Officially, the regime allows religious worship. But it will not allow large numbers of West Germans to come to East Germany for the October celebration of the 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation in Wittenberg.

Martin Luther lies buried in the Wittenberg Castle church where he posted the 95 theses that launched the Reformation. His heritage is one of the things that Germans East and West, have in common.

Some 80 per cent of East Germany's population of 17 million are Protestants, mostly Lutheran. About 10 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic.

In East Germany the Protestant Church carries the major burden of opposing the official atheism of the state. Elsewhere in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, the Roman or Orthodox Churches bear the brunt of Communist repression.

A major problem facing both the Protestant and Catholic faiths is getting government permission to build churches and the money and the materials to build them with. Many churches are still in ruins from the war, although some of general historical or architectural value have been rebuilt. For the Protestants, money is less of a problem since each church member pays an annual tax, one per cent of his income to the church. This is traditional in Germany.

Because of its smallness, the Roman Catholic Church faces less open opposition from the government than do the Protestants. An aide to Alfred Cardinal Bengsch said in East Berlin recently: "We make ourselves no illusions. One of the reasons we are left alone as much as we are is because we are so few."

Bengsch himself is one of the few direct ties between East and West Berlin. Residing in East Berlin, he is allowed to go to West Berlin three days a month to minister to the 250,000 Catholics there. At 45 the youngest cardinal in the church, Bengsch became Berlin's bishop only days after the Communists had built the wall dividing the city and his diocese, on Aug. 13, 1961.

Both sides in the church-state battle try to capture the minds of the young. The Communists have instituted the Jugendweihe, a ceremony in which a boy or a girl of 14 swears allegiance to the state on the basis of atheistic and Marxist principles.

Protestant opposition to the state ceremony can vary from parish to parish. Said one East Berlin man, for example: "We have a new and young (Protestant) pastor. Although the church is willing to bend a little, he is not. He says, 'If you go to the Jugendweihe, don't come back here.' He has plunged the whole parish into a crisis."

The Catholic Church goes easy on actual punishment for those who attend the state ceremony.

There was a time when it was said that if a child did not go to the Jugendweihe, his career was as good as over. In some places this apparently is still true. But in manpower-short East Germany, the regime, too, has learned to bend a little.

Said a parish priest, "We try to get our children to religious instruction when they start school. If we succeed, they generally will skip the Jugendweihe. If we don't, maybe 50 per cent of more will go to the state ceremony."

"We also make every effort to see that our children scholastically are near the top of their class. This puts the state in the position of having to reject a good student and potentially valuable contributor to the society as a whole. We have found that, faced with this decision, they will let a child continue higher education even if he or she did not attend the Jugendweihe or join Communist youth organizations."

The age of 14 is critical because it is then that school authorities decide if a child is to go on in school or should learn a trade. This also is traditional for all of Germany.

Legislature Report

By MYRL H. SHOEMAKER
State Representative
21st District

The House Finance Committee last night passed out the Capital Improvement Appropriation Bill. Since some of the testimony before the committee indicated that several projects promoted by the Governor in obtaining votes for the bond issue passed by the voters in 1963 and 1965 have been dropped or indefinitely postponed, I am preparing a list of these projects in order to determine the extent of this deception, and how it affects projects in our county. Improvements at Hargus Lake and A. W. Marion Park are deleted in the administration's Appropriation Bill.

Although I have not finished the lengthy list of projects, tabulations show that money appropriated by the legislature for parks and recreational facilities were diverted to other projects by the Governor's Board of Control.

A bill to authorize one or more school district boards of education to employ licensed optometrists to test school children for visual defects and make recommendations for correction to parents or guardians, passed this week. Personnel authorized under present law to conduct physical examination of public school children are physicians, dentists, and registered nurses.

John Coleman, Executive Director of the Ohio Municipal League said it was obvious that municipalities would lose in the long run if a one per cent tax on income for counties was passed. "Municipal income tax has been the salvation of cities," Coleman declared. Many cities, according to Coleman, are thinking of raising their present tax and, if counties entered the field, it would jeopardize their very existence.

Other measures still needing approval by the assembly are: An apportionment proposal to be submitted to the people this November, a school foundation proposal expected to call for about $180 million in public school money, and air and water pollution measures. The apportionment proposal will be the third attempt to get voter approval for state wide districting. The school foundation money will have to be approved as part of the state tax package. The air and water pollution measures have each been approved by their respective committees. It is expected that final action on these measures will be taken prior to adjournment.

OSU Boards OK Building Contracts

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State University's board of trustees Thursday ratified construction contract awards totaling $7.66 million for five OSU building projects.

Ruling Expected On Giveaways

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe will rule Monday on the validity of giveaways by service stations and supermarkets, an operation which he terms a multi-million dollar business.

In question is whether they violate the state's lottery laws. Most of the giveaways are matching games. The customer gets half of an item — play money or a card with historical scenes. Cash is given if the customer matches his half with another given with a later purchase.

OHIO CASH GRAIN

German Church-State Rift Widens; Religions Suffer

By HUBERT J. ERB
BERLIN (AP) — The East German Communist regime remains locked in a struggle with religion that lies largely beneath the surface but sometimes shoots off sparks like a smoldering volcano.

Officially, the regime allows religious worship. But it will not allow large numbers of West Germans to come to East Germany for the October celebration of the 450th anniversary of the Protestant Reformation in Wittenberg.

Martin Luther lies buried in the Wittenberg Castle church where he posted the 95 theses that launched the Reformation. His heritage is one of the things that Germans East and West, have in common.

Some 80 per cent of East Germany's population of 17 million are Protestants, mostly Lutheran. About 10 per cent of the population is Roman Catholic.

In East Germany the Protestant Church carries the major burden of opposing the official atheism of the state. Elsewhere in Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union, the Roman or Orthodox Churches bear the brunt of Communist repression.

A major problem facing both the Protestant and Catholic faiths is getting government permission to build churches and the money and the materials to build them. Many churches are still in ruins from the war, although some of general historical or architectural value have been rebuilt. For the Protestants, money is less of a problem since each church member pays an annual tax, one per cent of his income to the church.

This is traditional in Germany.

Because of its smallness, the Roman Catholic Church faces less open opposition from the government than do the Protestants. An aide to Alfred Cardinal Bengsch said in East Berlin recently: "We make ourselves no illusions. One of the reasons we are left alone as much as we are is because we are so few."

Bengsch himself is one of the few direct ties between East and West Berlin. Residing in East Berlin, he is allowed to go to West Berlin three days a month to minister to the 250,000 Catholics there. At 45 the youngest cardinal in the church, Bengsch became Berlin's bishop only days after the Communists had built the wall dividing the city and his diocese, on Aug. 13, 1961.

Both sides in the church-state battle try to capture the minds of the young. The Communists have instituted the Jugendweih, a ceremony in which a boy or a girl of 14 swears allegiance to the state on the basis of atheistic and Marxist principles.

Protestant opposition to the state ceremony can vary from parish to parish. Said one East Berlin man, for example: "We have a new and young (Protestant) pastor. Although the church is willing to bend a little, he is not. He says, 'If you go to the Jugendweih, don't come back here.' He has plunged the whole parish into a crisis."

The Catholic Church goes easy on actual punishment for those who attend the state ceremony.

There was a time when it was said that if a child did not go to the Jugendweih, his career was as good as over. In some places this apparently is still true. But in manpower-short East Germany, the regime, too, has learned to bend a little.

Said a parish priest, "We try to get our children to religious instruction when they start school. If we succeed, they generally will skip the Jugendweih. If we don't, maybe 50 per cent of more will go to the state ceremony."

"We also make every effort to see that our children scholastically are near the top of their class. This puts the state in the position of having to reject a good student and potentially valuable contributor to the society as a whole. We have found that, faced with this decision, they will let a child continue higher education even if he or she did not attend the Jugendweih or join Communist youth organizations."

The age of 14 is critical because it is then that school authorities decide if a child is to go on in school or should learn a trade. This also is traditional for all of Germany.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 14, the 195th day of 1967. There are 170 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1965, Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson collapsed and died on a London street.

On this date:

In 1789, citizens of Paris stormed Bastille prison.

In 1788, Congress passed the Sedition Act of 1798 making it a federal crime to publish false, scandalous and malicious writings against the government.

In 1853, President Franklin Pierce opened the World's Fair in New York City.

In 1960, Lyndon B. Johnson was nominated for the vice presidency by the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles.

In 1963, the U.S. Mariner 4 made a flight past Mars.

Ten years ago — A Soviet ship, Eshghabad, ran aground in a Caspian Sea storm and 270 drowned.

One year ago — Eight student nurses were slain in Chicago.

She's Got Real Speed

FREDERICK, Okla. (AP) — Mattie Rhine, 93, wouldn't think of getting on one of those propeller airplanes that hop from place to place.

"Regular planes are getting too slow for me, so now I go by jet," says Mrs. Rhine, a great-grandmother.

She recently left Oklahoma City for her sixth jet flight to California. She says she spends most of her time visiting her offspring.
